British Prime Minister as Chairman, Calls Steering Committee to Meet Tomorrow in Effort to Smooth Way for Further Sessions

Roosevelt's Statement Brings on Big Test

Frank United States Declaration Against Currency Stabilization Includes Thinly Veiled Reproof to France

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press Correspondent

London, July 3.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, as president of the World Economic Conference, decided this evening after a meeting of British authorities with representatives of the European bloc, to summon a meeting of the bureau tomorrow to determine the future of the conference, in view of President Roosevelt's rejection of currency stabilization.

From the highest British quarters the statement there was no question of the conference having collapsed.

The British are determined the assembly shall finish its work, but it was admitted the conference may have to hurry and that short cuts may have to be taken.

NUMEROUS POINTS
All parties agreed that as a result of the United States president's statement the whole idea of immediate stabilization of currencies must be abandoned.

The British insisted, however, there were many points where agreement could be reached apart from currency.

By George Hamilton, Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, July 3.—Crisis followed crisis at the World Economic Conference today and late in the afternoon the British delegation was hurriedly summoned in a final effort to save the conference. Sub-committees were adjourning with frank declarations it was useless to proceed under the present circumstances.

WOUNDED MAN MAY RECOVER

Delicate Operation Is Performed on Indian at Port Alberni

Port Alberni, July 3.—Medical authorities gave Charlie Sam, Kildonan Indian, an even chance for life after a delicate operation had been performed in the region of his heart, where he was stabbed in a fight at the cannery.

The operation, of a nature seldom performed except in a large hospital, was done by Dr. William Hogg, formerly of Victoria, and assisted by Dr. J. H. Macdonald, another Indian, is charged with attempted murder of Charlie Sam, and has been sentenced to eight days while his legal rights are fought for.

The wounding, police were told, was the outcome of a dispute between the two men.

MAIL COURSE HEAD DISMISSED

Hinchliffe Turns Out Hargreaves From Correspondence Department

Minister's Letter Conveying Dismissal News Causes Sensation

James Hargreaves, head of the British Columbia government's elementary correspondence course which covers scattered settlements in outlying parts of the province, has been dismissed from office by the Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education.

News of the dismissal, when it spread through the Parliament Buildings today, caused a great sensation as did Mr. Hinchliffe's charge over the staff in the free textbook department, shortly after he assumed control of the ministry.

Mr. Hargreaves is one of the best known educationists in the province, and has held office in the department for fourteen years. More than 10,000 correspondence courses under his direction have been given by mail to residents chiefly in distant parts, who lacked school facilities, and probably would not have been able to continue their education if it had not been for the correspondence system.

The correspondence department is known as one of the most smoothly operating departments in the government.

The dismissal was carried out by letter from Mr. Hinchliffe, in which he informed Mr. Hargreaves that if he desired his usual vacation this summer he had better take it before the end of July as he would not be on the government payroll after that date.

Mr. Hinchliffe has been charged with the removal of Hargreaves, but it was indicated there would be some reorganization in the department before the minister announced his man. As there were no reasons for the dismissal other than on the grounds of political expediency in view of the approaching election, it is expected the Hargreaves removal, like that of Norman Watt in Prince Rupert, will become a campaign issue.

Statement of Australian State Premiers Will Come Before "Big Four" Conference in London

Canadian Press
London, July 3.—The conference of the four great wheat-exporting nations—Canada, Australia, the United States and Argentina—to-day prepared to resume efforts to reach an agreement on limiting production in an effort to raise the price.

The prospects are uncertain in view of the attitude of Australia, which is opposed to any restriction of production. The reply of the Australian state premiers, the only ones having power in Australia to take any limiting steps, will come before the conference.

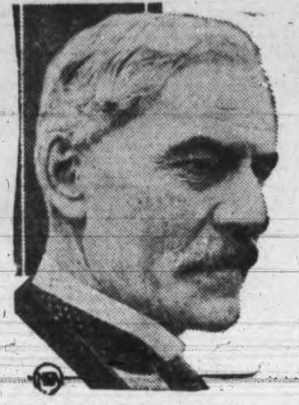

The general tendency is to regard the reply as likely to be favorable, but it is not yet known whether the Australians will require close examination.

RESTRICTION OF EXPORTS
Sydney, Australia, July 3.—Approval in principle and reservations of restriction of wheat exports was given at a meeting of Australian state premiers with the federal government, according to a statement issued yesterday by Hon. J. G. Latham, Minister of Finance.

The federal government's instructions to the Australian delegation at the World Economic Conference regarding wheat exports were contained in a cable to Rt. Hon. Stanley Bruce, Australian High Commissioner in London and head of the Australian delegation.

PREMIER MACDONALD

Rhodes Tells World Conferees Russians Upset Timber Trade

Delegates in London Hear Statement Canada Hopes Satisfactory Solution of Supply and Demand Will be Found

By George Hamilton, Canadian Press Writer
London, July 3.—Before the marketing committee of the World Economic Conference here to-day Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Canadian Finance Minister, squarely laid the responsibility for the timber trade on the shoulders of the Russians.

Quoting Russian figures, Mr. Rhodes showed production in the Soviet Union had risen from 10,800,000 cubic metres in 1926 to 22,500,000 in 1927.

"The United Kingdom," declared the Canadian delegate, "is the largest timber importing country and has undertaken by agreement that timber shall not be sold in its markets at prices which frustrate the conduct of normal trade."

CONCERTED ACTION
"The United Kingdom will be asked to implement this undertaking should Canada be of the opinion that will be sold in its markets at prices which frustrate the conduct of normal trade."

Liberals in North Feel Confident.
A Tip for Hugh Savage.

Candidates nominated to date; Liberals 34, Tories 10, United 10, Progress 15, Independents 10, United Front 4. Total 71.

There is little doubt one other party will enter the field of British Columbia politics to seek representation in the next provincial legislature. The move to form a municipal party has gained strength in the last few weeks and with mayors and reeves of many cities and municipalities in British Columbia in favor it is probable the party will be formed when the election date is announced.

The subject has been discussed for some time by Reeve William Crouch of Sanich, president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, conferees. Although no definite steps have yet been taken it is a live issue and there is every prospect the party will be launched.

"It has been pointed out we have no campaign funds," said Reeve Crouch, "but some are of the opinion that will be an asset in making an appeal to the voters. Others think the time is too short to form a party but there are others yet who think a party launched a month before the election would stand a better chance of success."

Hon. Joseph Hinchliffe's protestation of loyalty in which he said he would be loathed and would loathe himself if he were to desert his leader at this time in the hopes of improving his chances of nomination is being much quoted since another minister deserted the fold.

"We have our own opinions of these matters," says one editorial writer, "but we are glad to give Mr. Hinchliffe the benefit of the doubt as to his loyalty and lack of courage of Tories."

By Stephen Williamson, Associated Press Correspondent
London, July 3.—Unfavorable weather today delayed the departure of Air Minister Italo Balbo's armada of Italian flyers on the 330-mile hop to Reykjavik, Iceland.

After a long sleep, earned on the quick flight from Amsterdam, General Balbo and his comrades were up early, ready to leave, but a haze hung over Lough Foyle and weather experts reported flying conditions were unfavorable.

MAN IS HELD AFTER CHASE

Caretaker of Vancouver Theatre Has Gash on Head Following Attack

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 3.—John Gannon, caretaker, was hit over the head with the butt end of a revolver and suffered a large gash in the scalp, and Edward Neal was taken into custody as a suspect after a chase along Dunsmuir Street, following an attempted holdup of the Colonial Theatre, Granville and Dunsmuir Streets, to-day.

According to police, Gannon escorted a man to the theatre office when the latter inquired about a missing article. In the office he covered Gannon with a gun and ordered him to open the safe. When Gannon refused he struck him on the jaw with his fist and then hit him with the revolver. Gannon was covered with blood and the man, apparently frightened, fled. Gannon followed, shouting for help.

William "Taxi Bill" Granoukus and a companion chased a man whom they alleged ran from the theatre and finally caught him. He gave the name of Edward Neal.

Neal was charged with attempted robbery with violence.

THREE TIED IN BRITISH GOLF

Have Sub-par Scores of 71; Ross Somerville Shoots 78 After Brilliant Start

Canadian Press
St. Andrews, Scotland, July 3.—An Irish professional little known in international competition and a pair from the sharp-shooting United States brigade, marched in sub-par style through St. Andrews' cement-like fairways to-day to take the lead in the British open golf championship.

Patrick Nolan from Portmarnock shaved two strokes off par to match the rounds of 71 fired by George Dunlap, New York, and Horton Smith, Chicago, and kept the home forces in the front-line trench.

Carrying Canada's main hope, Ross "Sandy" Somerville, London, Ont., U.S. amateur titlist, started out on the first round of the thirty-hole qualifying test like the champion that he is. But coming home a drive out of bounds and three more penalty strokes—one of them for a ball that moved as he addressed it—gave him in score of 42 to total 78. His 36 out matched par.

Sandy's clubhouse mate from London, Ont., young Jack Nash, was far off color and his 44—83 placed him in jeopardy of elimination.

PLANNING TO END MARRIAGE UNION

Mary Pickford Says She and Douglas Fairbanks Have Reached End of Way

"Pickfair," Home in Beverly Hills, California, is for Sale

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Calif., July 3.—A separation is contemplated between Mary Pickford, Toronto-born actress, and Douglas Fairbanks, and "Pickfair," the beautiful home in Beverly Hills bought by the Fairbanks, is for sale, according to the actress.

"Our home, 'Pickfair,' is for sale," Mrs. Fairbanks said. "A separation between Douglas and me is contemplated. If there should be a divorce, the grounds will be incompatibility. Beyond that, there is nothing further to say."

TRAVELS MOST OF TIME
Fairbanks has spent much of his time in late years traveling, and at present is in London.

"Friends of Fairbanks said he was dissatisfied with life in the film colony. They express the belief if the separation should result in a divorce Fairbanks would live abroad."

Mrs. Pickford and Fairbanks were married in a quiet ceremony a short time after her divorce from her first husband, Owen Moore, screen actor, in March, 1920.

Fairbanks' first wife was Anna Beth Sully of Providence, R.I., whom he married in 1907. The divorce was granted in 1919 and the wife was granted custody of Douglas Fairbanks Jr., their only child.

Mary Pickford, whose name was Gladys Smith, was born in Toronto, April 8, 1893. Her mother was a character actress. Mary's stage career started when she was a child.

WALTH COMPARED
Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks are listed as the second and third wealthiest of Hollywood's film celebrities.

Roosevelt's Final Refusal to Consider Stabilization With Europe Sends Canadian and United Kingdom Money Upward; Rates Are Highest in Comparison With United States Dollar in Many Months

New York, July 3.—Canadian dollar closed at 93 cents on the New York foreign exchange market to-day, the highest mark in many months. This was 1% above Saturday's closing rate. The pound sterling finished at $4.47 1/2, up 14 cents.

The currencies soared upward following President Roosevelt's veto on currency stabilization.

French francs gained .14 of a cent at 5.16 cents, while Dutch guilders, Belgian belgas and Swiss francs also advanced.

WHEAT PRICE RISE BREAKS NEW GROUND

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Winnipeg, July 3.—Bulls dominated the Winnipeg wheat pit again to-day on the strength of further reports of crop damage in the south and rise in Canadian and United Kingdom currencies. In the wildest buying market in many years, wheat future prices held more than six cents higher through most of the morning and closed above the levels established early last week.

July wheat closed at 79 1/2 cents, October finished at 81 3/4; December at 83 1/2 and May at 87 3/4, a range of more than seven cents higher than the spread Friday, the last pre-holiday trading session.

A barrage of buying orders laid down by speculators enthused over reports of damage to United States southwest crops, blew wheat prices nine cents higher in the first half hour of trading and substantial rises in the pound sterling helped to maintain them near that level.

Cash grain trading made little progress, but coarse grain futures followed wheat higher, final gains as much as 14 cents at one time.

AT CHICAGO
Chicago, July 3.—Grain prices swung sharply upward to-day on reports of continued heat and drought over the Middle West of the United States and because of sharp declines in the United States dollar compared with the British pound sterling. Opening prices were as much as 3 1/2 cents a bushel higher than Saturday and the market later advanced about a cent further.

Closing prices were generally a cent or more higher than the opening.

Unofficial crop estimates released during the day indicated the smallest wheat crop in the United States, both spring and winter wheat, in thirty-seven years. The average of the leading experts was 323,000,000 bushels.

May closed at $1.06, July at 98 cents, September at $1.00 1/2 and December at $1.03 1/4.

All other grains were higher with wheat.

BANDIT'S TORTURE MAN IN WINNIPEG

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, July 3.—Held captive in his north end home here, Jacob Myles, manager of a local amusement company, was tortured by two armed bandits who applied the burning tick of a cigarette lighter to his feet. They sought to have him reveal the combination of a basement safe. A third bandit stood guard outside the house.

Previously, Myles had opened one safe, from which the gunmen obtained $125, but while they were torturing their victim, the lookout took flight and fled. Two friends came to call on Myles, heard the men talking in the basement, and immediately called the police. Walter Jakobson, one of the alleged bandits, was found hiding behind a bed in Myles' home when police broke in. The other two escaped.

Nathan Diner, a friend of Myles, was a helpful witness. He was held at gunpoint while Myles was tortured.

BRITISH SEEK SOVIET TRADE

Exchange of Goods to be Quickly Resumed After Freeing of Prisoners

London, July 3.—With the patching up of their immediate difficulties evidenced in the lifting of the British embargo on Soviet trade, the group of the two British engineers held in a Moscow prison, Great Britain and Russia are now making preparations to resume the trade relations which prevailed before the trial in April last.

The peace agreement was announced Saturday evening after consultations between Sir John Simon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and the Soviet diplomats, Jean Maisky, ambassador in London, and Maxim Litvinoff, Foreign Commissioner.

The embargo on Russian goods coming into British ports was laid down April 19, the day after the group of British engineers were found guilty by a Moscow court of espionage and sabotage. Three of the British engineers were expelled from Russia, but L. C. Thornton and W. L. Macdonald were sentenced to three and two years' imprisonment, respectively.

Announcement of the Anglo-Soviet agreement was made by the Foreign Office, which declared a short resumption of trade relations, and that the embargo would be removed after the release of the two British engineers.

The London Gazette supplement published a proclamation by the King revoking the embargo, effective immediately.

A Foreign Office communiqué said that the British engineers had come before the resumption of the executive committee of the Soviet Saturday and the sentences of the two men were commuted so they could be set at liberty at once.

Lifting of the embargo was officially announced also by the Russian commissary for trade relations, who said arrangements would be made promptly to resume Anglo-Russian trade negotiations where they were interrupted as a consequence of the arrest of the British engineers.

Macdonald and Thornton were released from the Solovki prison at 11:08 p.m., the exact minute the official announcement was issued despite the fact the news they were being freed had been generally known throughout the day.

Talk with correspondents

Both seemingly were in much better physical condition than during their trial in April. They were taken directly from the prison to the British embassy, where they had a late dinner and caused in spite of the night.

"It is good to be out," they said as newspapermen met them at the embassy.

Macdonald has no plans for the future beyond getting home as quickly as possible and seeing his directors," said Thornton.

Macdonald occasionally nodded assent to Thornton's statements and frequently injected a word or two.

"We cannot discuss anything concerning the trial or arrest until after we have talked with our office at home," added Thornton, halting questions of the newspapermen concerning Macdonald's action in pleading guilty and his later unsuccessful action to withdraw that plea.

Macdonald said he had gained weight in prison, but his features still seemed pained.

Thornton looked ruddy and appeared in much better condition generally.

Treated well

"They treated us very well in prison," he declared, "and they had not been down to work but had been allowed daily walks in the prison courtyard, spending the remainder of the time reading books in their joint cell in the prison hospital."

Wheat Agreement Outlook Uncertain

The cable read: "This conference is emphatically the opinion of the major financial and economic problems before the conference (in London) should be dealt with before such specific subjects as wheat, and furthermore, it disappears of the principle of restriction of production as a remedy for the world depression, although it recognizes the importance of wheat as an orderly marketing of existing world supplies would considerably relieve the situation."

Moreover, in view of the position wheat has assumed at the world conference, this conference recognizes that Australia should agree in principle to the temporary scheme for limitation of wheat exports, provided the scheme be fair to Australian interests and that not only the four principal wheat-exporting countries (Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia) but also European wheat-producing and exporting countries effectively co-operate in the scheme.

The conference approved in principle that on account of the existing world surplus there should be no accumulation in Australia during the next two seasons of any stock of wheat beyond normal requirements.

CONSIDERATION PROMISED

Mr. Latham announced the dispatch of the cable at the conclusion of a meeting and said the federal government was prepared to give favorable consideration to the scheme suggested because it afforded the only opportunity for removing the menace to world prices constituted by the North American surplus.

"If it succeeds," he said, "it will assist in the general recovery of prices. It makes the first definite advance toward co-ordination on a world basis of the interests of the great primary producing countries like Australia and the European countries which constitute a substantial portion of the markets for our products."

The two men say they followed the Ogo but it always kept beyond their reach and dived beneath the surface as they approached.

SOVIET BUYS COTTON IN U.S.

Thirty Per Cent Cash; Reconstruction Corporation Makes Loans to Exporters

Washington, July 3.—A series of loans to United States exporters with which to finance the sale of between $5,000 and $50,000 bales of cotton for shipment to Russia has been arranged by the Reconstruction Corporation.

Opening a field of negotiation for shipment of a range of other commodities to the huge Soviet market, the Reconstruction Corporation's announcement constitutes the first such move by the United States government since the U.S.S.R. came into its present existence.

CONFERENCE IN LONDON

Formal disclosure of the action followed close on a conference in London between Assistant Secretary Raymond Moley and the State Department and Maxim Litvinoff, Foreign Commissioner of Soviet Russia. The advice from abroad labeled the deal as virtually closed.

James H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced the loans to United States exporters would be secured by the notes of the Amtorg Trading Company, commercial representative of the Soviet state in the United States. Furthermore, Jones said, they would be "unconditionally guaranteed by the State Bank of the U.S.S.R." The loans will be for one year at an interest rate of five per cent.

"The Amtorg Trading Company," Jones said, "will pay thirty per cent of the purchase price in cash at the time of shipment and expects to ship a large part of the cotton in the month of July."

OTHER MATERIALS

Although no formal statement was made, it was stated reliably that negotiations already were in progress between the State Department and representatives of the Soviet for the shipment to Russia of a number of other raw materials. What products will be included was not disclosed, but it was said reliably that there had been no move launched to date to include the shipment of wheat to Russia under this method.

Russell Boardman Dies of Injuries After Crash at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, July 3.—Russell Boardman, thirty-five-year-old Boston, Mass., sportsman and aviator, injured Saturday during the Trans-United States race, died of his injuries this morning in the City Hospital here.

The one-time co-holder of the world long-distance non-stop flight record crashed Saturday as he lifted his tiny plane from the municipal airport here to continue his New York-to-Los Angeles dash in a $10,000 prize race.

Twenty-five feet from the ground, a cross wind caught the stubby craft. It flipped over and hit the ground. Boardman dropped unconscious from the cockpit.

Boardman's career included motorcycle racing, speed-boat piloting and transatlantic flying. His greatest feat in the air was the flight from New York to London in 1931, with John Polando of Lynn, Mass., as copilot. They made the 5,000-mile journey in forty-nine hours.

The telegram read: "John Factor, four others, possibly 'high' seven, west, and one half-mile from Morrison Hotel, from Miles, north one mile 340 feet, and west one mile 480 feet; top floor; two-story missionary house twenty feet by fifty feet, length is north-south."

(Signed) "Charles E. Dwyer, Pardon Plaza, New York City."

The police expressed surprise at the exactness of details in the address given.

Miles is a small suburb a few miles from Morton Grove, the village where Factor was abducted early Saturday morning.

A gay party in a Morton Grove roadhouse Saturday evening was followed by the spectacular abduction.

"Jake the Barber" Factor, visitor at night clubs, habit of gaming tables and the story runs he has pocketed $1,000,000 from his play in recent weeks—was pounced on by two autoloads of kidnapers, bristling with guns.

From a car behind, Mrs. Factor and Mrs. A. Epstein, hysterical, watched their husbands dragged from the automobile young Jerome Factor was driving.

Jerome was sent on his way, Epstein was put out later.

Later Lieutenant Frank Freemuth, head of the hoodlum squad at the detective bureau, expressed belief the gang headed by Verne Sankey, had planned the abduction of Factor.

STORM SWEEPS OVER CHICAGO

Score of Persons Injured; Property Losses Estimated at $1,500,000

Associated Press

Chicago, July 3.—A freak storm of less than seven minutes duration, sweeping into Chicago from the Great Lakes, wrought damage estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 and caused in more than a score of persons yesterday.

A fifty-seven-mile-an-hour wind whirled about the saucer edge of the Lake Michigan shore, tearing roofs from buildings, uprooting trees and snapping off power lines before heading out over the water again.

The worst effect of the storm was felt in the Elgin and St. Charles regions. Forty cottages were wrecked and fifty more were uninjured there.

Storm occupants, trapped when the shelters collapsed, were removed to a hospital painfully injured.

A heavy rainfall which followed the windstorm flooded more than 6,000 basements in Chicago alone. A total of twenty-eight houses were uninjured in Chicago and thirty-six fires broke out, due to damaged wiring.

Storm winds blew in southeastern Minnesota and southwestern Wisconsin Saturday evening caused widespread damage to property and crops. Twenty-five lives were lost. A Chicago field, fifteen, of Chas. Field, Minn., was killed.

MacDonald Trying To Solve the Crisis Of World Conference

It was later announced the steering committee of the conference would meet to-morrow to consider its fate. Temporary adjournment will probably be sought to permit international conditions to settle down. British circles were profoundly disappointed to learn that the United States declaration, which was still of the opinion the conference should continue.

THE GRAVE SITUATION IN WHICH the future of the conference admittedly lay in the balance, arose from the impasse between the gold standard countries and the non-gold countries. It was brought to a head by the outspoken United States declaration against currency stabilization at this time, a vigorous refusal of the European gold bloc's plea for currency stabilization, which was a thinly veiled reproach to France was contained.

JOINT DECLARATION

The gold bloc promptly took action in the shape of a joint declaration to the world over the signatures of France, Italy, Poland, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland, that the monetary delegation came to the conference to be recalled from the conference.

The conference proceedings proper had already been a virtual standstill while the currency stabilization battle swung back and forth over the Atlantic. First the drafting committee was adjourned until Thursday. The monetary sub-committee adjourned until Friday.

The move to adjourn the conference rapidly gained impetus through the law even though the Los Angeles Finance Society did protest according to Police Chief A. P. Huber.

live at some satisfactory solution of the problem and that concerted action may bring about a readjustment of supply and demand.

"Our task is to restore prices to a level which is fair to both producers and consumers."

LOWEST IN FORTY YEARS

Despite the fact Canada's timber prices had been reduced to the lowest level in forty years, and wages to level below that of common labor in the United Kingdom, our sales have increased and our mills are operating at less than fifty per cent of capacity," he declared.

The methods under which timber was produced in an export from the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics "have further served to augment the dislocation of timber markets. The rapid fall in prices has not checked the quantities of timber exported from this source."

"Under these circumstances an adjustment of supply to demand is not possible. It would appear that Russian timber is exported and sold without regard to the cost of production."

"Faced with this competition, other exporting countries have had to curtail their exports, and in some cases even their reduced exports have been possible only through a general lower in the standard of living."

Mr. Rhodes assured the committee Canada would co-operate in efforts to readjust the supply to the demand. He suggested establishment of a small sub-committee representing the principal softwood exporting countries and one or two leading countries.

CANDIDATE IS HEARD AT SOOKE

Time for a Change Says C. E. Whitney Griffiths in Address at Sooko

Special to The Times
Sooke, July 3.—One of the most successful socials ever held in East Sooko was given by the women of the district last Friday evening, when more than eighty people were present.

The chair was taken by W. A. Walker, president of the Lutton branch of the Esquimalt Liberal Association, and speeches were given by C. A. Helgeson, J. Stuart Yates and the Liberal candidate, C. E. Whitney Griffiths.

Mr. Whitney Griffiths, who has given a rousing reception on rising to speak, chose as his subject "Wake Up! It is Time for a Change." He expressed his pleasure in seeing such a fine audience and said the gathering was indicative of the reception at all points in the constituency and of the great change in sentiment he had noted everywhere.

If the expression of opinion which he had heard about anything at all, it was that the people were really waking up and asking for a change, not only of government but for better conditions in general.

He referred to his connection with the advisory board of the Farmer's Institutes and said that when he openly advocated certain reforms for the benefit of the farmers, he was told "he was embarrassing the government" and that he had better pigeon-hole his recommendations in that respect.

FAVORS RICH
Mr. Whitney Griffiths condemned the educational system in this province which he said gave special privileges to the children of the wealthy over the poor and pledged himself to work for a reform of that system.

He also strongly favored a principle that members of the Legislature should be free to vote for any measure as their conscience and judgment dictated, and that the party in power should not be deemed to be defeated because any legislation advocated by them failed to receive a majority vote.

A government should only be defeated on the passing of a direct vote of non-confidence, he argued.

Mr. Whitney Griffiths said that when elected he would meet his constituents at least once a year and give them a full account of his stewardship. He said he had heard several criticisms of Attorney-General Pooley because he only saw his constituents in this riding once in five years, or just prior to an election.

An amusing dialogue, entitled "The Census Taker," was presented by two young women of the East Sooko district, after which dancing and refreshments were enjoyed.

Canadian Press
London, July 3.—Within the trade war between the United Kingdom and Russia settled by release of the British engineers jailed for espionage, Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet's foreign minister, has turned his attention to the Near East.

A political pact of non-aggression will, it is expected, be concluded during the coming week-end between Soviet Russia, Poland and the Little Entente—Czechoslovakia and Roumania. In Soviet circles the conclusion of this pact is regarded as of special importance as paving the way to closer commercial relations.

More Anti-Jew Laws in Germany

Associated Press
Berlin, July 3.—The Hitler government amended the civil service laws yesterday, increasing the severity of restrictions against Jews.

Such Gentiles as are married to non-Aryans, meaning Jews, are to be discharged immediately and such are also to be barred from entering the service in the future. It was stipulated further that non-Aryans cannot become employees of the Reich or of states, counties, villages or public institutions.

In order to promote family life, women entering the service must have attained the age of thirty-five years.

RAIN DAMPENED HOLIDAY CARD

Children's Pet Parade and Sports Events Postponed Until Wednesday

Jupiter Pluvius staged a Dominion Day celebration all by himself on Saturday, but later on in the day relented to let the sun come out, and many affairs that had been postponed were carried out. A number of events, including the children's pet parade, children's sports, the morning baseball game between the Vancouver Asahis and the Native Sons of Canada, many private picnics and all church picnics, with the exception of the Victoria Hall Sunday school, were cancelled. Some of the events scheduled to be held on Saturday have been postponed until later this week, while others have been laid aside for an indefinite period.

Nearly 1,000 people attended the finals of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association tournament held at the Victoria Golf Club at Oak Bay. When the match between Campbell and Taylor started over 500 people were present, and the numbers were almost doubled when the rain ceased. Nearly 2,000 people were present at the baseball game at the Royal Athletic Park between the Asahis and Sons of Canada after the morning game had been called off on account of rain.

EVENTS WEDNESDAY
Perhaps the most unfortunate part of the holiday week-end was the cancellation of the children's pet parade and sports events. Although the sun shone brightly in the afternoon, officials deemed it advisable to cancel the track and field day programme on account of the heavy track. It was decided, however, to hold both the parade and sports on Wednesday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park.

The parade will commence at 2 o'clock on Yates Street in front of the Dominion Hotel and will proceed up Yates Street, north along Quadra Street and into Athletic Park, where the prizes will be presented. Immediately following the presentation of prizes the sports will be run off, and to conclude the day's programme the Victoria and Native Sons of Canada will meet in a Senior Amateur Baseball League tilt at 6 o'clock.

T. W. C. Hawkins, chairman of the celebration committee, said on Saturday that more candies and nuts had been purchased, so that now every boy or girl who attends will be given some, instead of just being for the parade contestants. Mr. Hawkins stated this morning that the committee planned to make it a real children's day on Wednesday, and no effort would be spared to give them the best time of their lives.

The excursion to Seattle, which was sponsored by the warrant officers and sergeants of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, attracted 750 people who enjoyed the sights and hospitality of the Sound City.

A number of people saw the inter-city cricket match between Vancouver and Victoria at Mount Tominie, which was started one hour late on account of the rain. The annual J.B.A.A. regatta was witnessed by many people who not only crowded the banks of the Gorge but lined the Point Ellice and Johnson Street bridges to watch the "Thunder Victoria" event.

Associated Press
Tokyo, July 3.—A Bengo (Japanese news agency) dispatch from Seoul, capital of Korea, to-day said thirty-five persons were known to have died, sixteen were missing, and 50,000 had been driven from their inundated homes as the result of a week of heavy rains in the valley of the Rakuto River in southern Korea.

SLEEPING YOUTH TOOK BIG JUMP

Canadian Press
Herbert, Sask., July 3.—John Goertzen believes in dreams—or did until last week. He had just completed a trip from North Dakota and with his parents was visiting at the home of his uncle, Henry H. Goertzen, of Mainville, fifteen miles northeast of Herbert.

After retiring at night, apparently overpowered by his long journey, he dreamed he was still traveling. This time the road lay down a steep hill and his car had no brakes. He thought fast for a moment, and considered it wisest to jump from the car. He jumped.

Members of the family heard a heavy thud outside. They investigated and found John in a heap on the ground, seventeen feet below his upstairs bedroom window.

A doctor was called and it was found the youth had sustained several fractures and severe shock.

MAN BEATEN BY THUGS

Vancouver Citizen Robbed in His Store; Other Thefts Reported

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 3.—Two holdup men armed with an automatic and blackjack slugged and robbed E. M. Lynn in his store, 1321 Robson Street, at 9 a.m. Saturday and escaped with $20 taken from Mr. Lynn's trousers pocket and several dollars in silver from the cash register.

According to Mr. Lynn's story to the police, the two men entered the store and one of them said "Give us a bread." As the storekeeper turned to get it he heard the command: "Hold 'em up." One man held the gun against his ribs. Mr. Lynn seized a butcher knife and at the same instant was struck on the head. He fell to the floor. The thugs picked him up and tied him hand and foot to a chair. They proceeded hurriedly to search his pockets and then opened the cash register.

CONVICT FREED OF RIOT CHARGE

Kingston, Ont., July 3.—With tears streaming down his face, Convict Sam Behan, in the Kingston penitentiary in a life sentence and another of seven years, was found not guilty Saturday of rioting at the institution and acquitted by Judge Evan McLean after the jury had deliberated for an hour and a half.

Behan, who conducted his own case, appeared stunned as the jury returned its verdict. Then he smiled, bowed his head and started to weep. He stated it was the first time he had cried for twenty years and five minutes later was on his way back to the penitentiary.

The acquittal came after the convict had made an impassioned plea to the jury. "It doesn't matter much if you find me guilty," he said. "I am serving a term of life and seven years for a crime I didn't commit. I don't care what your verdict is as far as I personally am concerned. My life means nothing to me for I can't live long enough to get out, but I want to show you men there has not been humane treatment in the penitentiary."

Henry Savage, seventy-four, was found dead in a chair at 318 West Sixth Avenue at 7:45 Saturday morning. He had left the Old Peoples Home June 1. He was an old-age pensioner.

BODY RECOVERED
Vancouver, July 3 (Canadian Press).—The body of Harold Milton of 924 East Fifty-third Avenue, who was drowned Thursday afternoon when he fell into the river at the foot of Fraser Avenue, was recovered Sunday morning. The remains were found a short distance from where the boy had disappeared under a boom of logs.

Road deaths in England showed a decrease in 1932 for the first time in five years, 6,651 deaths being recorded in 1932 as compared to 6,691 in 1931.

RELIEF CHANGE FORESHADOWED

Calgary, July 3.—Possibility of the Dominion government taking over single workless relief camps in the near future was mentioned in an Alberta relief commission warning to 350 jobless employed on road work, who are threatening to go on strike.

The disgruntled unemployed are working out their relief at road camps on the Banff Highway and are threatening to quit their jobs unless the Alberta commission supplies clothing and tobacco. A. A. Mackenzie, chairman of the commission, informed the men all those going on strike would be cut off all relief lists.

Mr. Mackenzie also stated it was probable tobacco and clothing would be supplied the men when the Dominion government takes over the camps.

NARROW ESCAPE
Winnipeg, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Thomas Graham went to sleep while smoking a cigarette. The next thing he knew he was in a hospital. Rolling from his lips, the cigarette set fire to the chestfield on which he was sleeping, and Graham was overcome by dense smoke. Unconscious, he was rescued by neighbors and revived with the hospital inhaler.

The average weight of an elephant is about five tons.

SENATOR TAYLOR AND THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT

Senator J. D. Taylor, of New Westminster, is a life-long Conservative and a former colleague of Premier Tolmie in the House of Commons at Ottawa. His strictures on the provincial government at a meeting of the New Westminster Board of Trade on Thursday night, therefore, are unduly arresting and as such will arouse widespread interest.

The Senator's chief object of attack was the measure passed in the closing hours of the last legislative session which provided for a contract with a company for the construction of a bridge across the Fraser at Ladner. By this legislation Senator Taylor said the government committed the province to pay deficits up to $140,000 a year for forty years—not from the start but from the time of the completion of the bridge, the company paying its share out of the capital which it is authorized to raise in the sum of $2,600,000. Between that amount and the cost of construction, he contended, there would be a spread of $1,750,000. The province is obligated to pay both principal and interest, which, Senator Taylor claims, means that it will pay virtually the whole sum.

Senator Taylor says there is no necessity for this bridge, and we are confident his opinion will be shared by a majority opinion in British Columbia. Considering economic conditions throughout the province, the large number of people on unemployment relief, the enormous provincial deficits, the unprecedented increases of taxation, the cutting down of grants to municipalities, it looks like the very ecstasy of madness. Is it possible to imagine anything more fantastic than a government which is at its wits end to meet its financial obligations, which has run the provincial debt to more than $150,000,000, committing this province to substantial financial liabilities on account of a bridge across the Fraser River for which there is no general demand?

The British Columbian, a newspaper published in New Westminster by Senator Taylor, has this to say of the scheme:

"There is a Public Inquiries Act in British Columbia intended to be applicable to affairs of this kind, where extraordinary concessions are made by government or Legislature. The application of this act should be invoked, particularly in view of the fact that the Legislature is practically defunct and the ministry is incomplete, and even includes a member who has not been elected or offered himself for election. Responsible government stands suspended in British Columbia, and our only safeguard is the representative of the crown. A province which has survived the sixty million drain for the P.G.E. affair, no doubt can stand the five or six millions for which we are to be taxed by Dr. Tolmie's farewell act; but there is incident to this the menace to the industrial and commercial future of the community of New Westminster, which gives to our people strong cause for demanding the inquiry called for by the unexampled situation."

At the meeting on Thursday night Senator Taylor observed that "responsible government in British Columbia has disappeared, the Legislature is dead and the remnant of a government is irresponsible." These are very strong words.

NEVER SEEN A TRAIN AND IS NOT WORRIED

Consider the case of Miss Dolly Laky, who lives at Tresco, in the Scilly Isles. She is the postmistress there, knows all about the telephone, but has never seen a train. A London Daily Mirror reporter called on her recently to interview her. He says: "Imagine the sub-tropical houses in New Gardens, minus their glass roofs, set in a warm corner of the Atlantic—that is Tresco. Giant camellia bushes as big as birch trees are now ablaze with blossom there, and the citron trees are already heavy with yellowing fruit in this garden island. 'So why should I worry about never having been to the mainland to see a railway train?' asked Miss Laky of her interviewer. Then she proceeds to say:

"I am quite happy here, and I do not want to move. I have never been to the mainland in my life, though I can sometimes see it away on the horizon on a clear day. People express amazement, tinged apparently with pity, when they hear that I have never seen a train. Then they show me a picture of one, but that does not impress me. Why should I make a trip from this lovely island just to see a smoky thing like that? Some morning visitors seem to wonder why it is that I am not as mad as they are about the latest fashions in clothes. Fashions simply do not worry me, though I like a new dress occasionally as much as anyone. London and other newspapers from the mainland come here on the boat three times a week, and whenever I want new clothes I just read the advertisements and buy them by post. Do not make the mistake of thinking that we are altogether antique and behind the times here. We just enjoy life—that's all. And I haven't the faintest desire ever to see one of your smoky, smelly railway engines."

People who have been used to the bright lights of the city and all the amenities of modern progress may look with disdain upon those who live in comparative solitude; but when the advantages of jazz life are weighed in the balances with those of a more primitive existence, the latter are not to be sneezed at. The dweller in the great open spaces, who finds inspiration in Nature's handiwork, develops his own philosophy and finds it adequately sustaining. The woman at Tresco is at home with her giant camellia bushes as big as birch trees, citron trees ablaze with blossom, and the yellowing fruit of her "garden island." Trains do not interest her.

TRAVEL AND A NEW PHILOSOPHY

Railroad companies all over the continent are popularizing travel by offering cheap rates in some categories, with the result that their passenger trains are about three times as long as they were a year or so ago. It is rather surprising that they did not resort to this expedient before, in view of the growth of motor car transportation and the expansion of highway systems. It may be that the cheap passenger rates are not profitable against high capitalization and expensive rolling stock, but the railroad companies will have to adjust their services to an entirely new economic philosophy in regard to travel, whether they want to or not.

Up to recent times railroad travel was either a luxury confined to a very limited proportion of the general public, or a business necessity. It was not a matter for the average pocket-book, which, of course, is very small. There was much specialization in luxurious accommodation at high prices with particular appeal to the affluent, especially the new rich who desired to make up for long years of backboards and dumpcarts by palatial services at fancy prices.

Similarly hotel and steamship companies spent vast sums in providing accommodation and facilities, for which, the recipient of the average income could not pay. Much of it was sheer waste and, besides, it was bad for the patrons, who would have been much better off if they had traveled, slept and dined in simple surroundings. That day has gone, for a very long time. A large part of the world's affluence has disappeared. Former millionaires now are glad to have an opportunity of traveling at tourist rates.

Travel, like most other things for sale, is a commodity, and if there is going to be enough of it to support the agencies through which it is effected, it must be based upon the average income, not upon the incomes of the rapidly-diminishing wealthy element, or socialites to be met in the exclusive clubs of the larger communities. The new philosophy which is beginning to dominate the human family is no respecter of transportation agencies any more than it respects any ordinary service by which people live and have their being.

SIXTEEN STATES HAVE RENDERED "WET" VERDICT

United States people seem to have made up their minds fairly conclusively about the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. So far sixteen states have voted and all favor its repeal. They follow: West Virginia, California, New York, New Hampshire, Indiana, Connecticut, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Wyoming, New Jersey, Delaware, Nevada, Illinois and Massachusetts.

Thirty-six of the forty-eight states must vote in favor of any change in the Constitution before this can be effected. In the present case there does not seem to be much doubt of what the verdict will be as far as the states are concerned. When The Literary Digest took its straw vote last spring only two states opposed any interference with the prohibition law; these were Kansas and North Carolina. In both states the vote showed only a very slight difference.

After all the states have rendered their verdict, Congress will have to pass the necessary legislation. This will be the Twenty-first Amendment, and its object will be the deletion of the Eighteenth. A two-thirds majority of both Houses—the House of Representatives and the Senate—is required to give effect to the change. Even supposing the requisite thirty-six states approve the change, it will be some time, of course, before 3.2 per cent beer will be able to welcome its "hard" companion.

MR. FORD AND THE WAR DEBTS

Mr. Henry Ford has made some startling statements in his time. He made one the other day which bears repeating. Regarding war debts, he said that neither the collection nor cancellation of war debts was of any consequence "so far as the plain people of the nations are concerned." Then he added:

"The people of neither the creditor nor debtor nations will get any real benefit either way. The World War was paid for, dearly paid for, in cash and in every other way, long ago. Every shot fired in the war was paid for. The debts are 'velvet'; they are the last rakeoff. If we don't forget them our children will."

Mr. Ford also declared that the shortest cut to the restoration of the economic balance was the elimination of the "dole system," and one of the quickest ways for the United States to eliminate the dole was to get rid of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. "Recovery," Mr. Ford said, "can come only up through the people, not down through financial or political schemes. We must put work everywhere—not the kind of work that pays a dole, but a wage with a margin."

We in Canada will have to get away from the dole system, now operating in its worst form, if the Canadian taxpayers are to get anything at all for their money. Mr. Bennett, even at this late hour, should take Mr. Mackenzie King's advice and appoint a competent, non-partisan commission to advise him and his colleagues on the problem of unemployment.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CANADA, $2.20 ADDITIONAL
 The Border Cities Star

The tariff on magazines never ceases to cause us amazement. There is a magazine published in New York, which is both interesting and informative. Nothing of its kind is published in Canada. Yet we have just received a notice that our subscription is up. The cost is $4 for one year plus $2.20 extra if the magazine is sent to Canada. And that $2.20 extra is in United States funds. So is the $4. The additional $2.20 covers the tariff charges on the magazine. But why it should be levied we do not know, especially as no such magazine is put out in the Dominion.

THISTLES

To the Editor:—In the district of North Saanich and Sidney, B.C., the public roads and the government property are contaminated with Canadian thistles, and wild carrot and other noxious weeds. Would it not be in the interest of the community to engage at a fair wage to cut the noxious weeds, that will inside of five years destroy the noxious weeds in this district if not attended to?

Why wait until the Canadian thistles are gone to seed before they are destroyed? In my opinion, this is a "penny wise but a pound foolish" plan. You can not expect the farmers and leaseholders of farming land to attempt to destroy noxious weeds in the province and Dominion governments allow them to thrive on the public roads and Dominion Government land.

Sidney, B.C., July 1, 1933.

GARBAGE

To the Editor:—The letter of Alderman Williams in your issue of yesterday respecting garbage on the beaches is so puzzling in its argument that I do not know him I should consider he held a brief for the contractors.

May I point out to him that the citizens of Victoria are not interested in hearing that two dead horses were washed ashore or that wreckage was cast on our beaches many years ago, but what we want to know is why the council does not insist that the garbage scoops are not sent at least two or three miles out to sea instead of being dumped just outside the breakwater, thus defiling the beaches from Macaulay Point to Clover Point practically continuously.

At intervals during twenty years I have pointed this out, and I will remember a visitor landing here from an Express liner writing to the press about two years ago saying that the first impression of the passengers of Victoria was seeing a scow empty garbage just at the entrance of the harbor, and describing how the passengers held their noses and flocked to the other side of the ship to avoid the disgusting spectacle.

As to the ships passing up and down the straits being responsible, one has only to see the hundreds of empty tins and the orange rind and decayed vegetable matter to know that it is the garbage of the city.

As this is likely to be my final letter on the subject, as I am leaving the city, I would commend to the Alderman Williams, and I would suggest that he use his best efforts to find out the "nigger in the fence," as I have long ago been convinced there is one somewhere.

A. T. PRAMPTON.

SENATOR TAYLOR'S STRICTURE

To the Editor:—Senator Taylor's reference to the Tolmie Government as being irresponsible, is a serious charge, coming as it does from a Conservative Senator of the Dominion of Canada. The question arises, how long are the people of British Columbia to submit, without most emphatic protest, to the continuance in office of a small group of men who without a shadow of doubt have lost the confidence of the people, who are in truth an "irresponsible government?"

It is significant that, so far as the writer is aware, outside of the few who comprise the government, no public men of any standing have come out in support of the present administration. Five cabinet ministers have resigned, willingly or otherwise; not a single former Conservative sitting member of the Legislature has publicly announced that he is still ready to continue his support, by standing for re-election as a Tolmie Unionist. On the contrary, there are in the present Legislature a number of members of whom at least in the House as supporters of the government. Six Bowserites are in the fray, one of whom was Speaker, a high office always held by a government supporter. The great Conservative organization, which in 1928 was solidly behind Premier Tolmie, thereby being the dominant factor in bringing about victory, has now withdrawn its powerful support.

In accordance with the constitution the present Legislature goes out of existence on August 31. If a new Legislature is not elected previously, the result will be that from September 1 the "irresponsible government" will continue to administer the affairs of this province, until such time as it pleases this "irresponsible" group that an election shall be called. No criticism can be too severe, when directed against the former adherents of the Tolmie Government in the Legislature. Their continued support of the administration to the end of the session, much of the present impasse can be attributed. The time and place to show that lack of confidence in the Tolmie Government was when the House was in session.

It seems clear that Premier Tolmie is either (1) ignorant of the true state of affairs; (2) dominated by mulish stubbornness; (3) or is loath to relinquish the emoluments of office. In any case his present attitude is the measure of his incompetence, as leader of the government.

Countless citizens believe that the time has come for the Lieutenant-Governor of the province to exercise his constitutional authority in the premises.

DAVID RAMSAY.

THE VICE OF TARIFFS

To the Editor:—The Prince of Wales, at a recent meeting of the Pilgrims' Society in London, introduced the United States ambassador, speaking of the impossibility of any nation prospering in isolation, and said that this great depression and the sufferings it involved were bringing home to us all "the vice of economic nationalism." He was looking forward to that ideal day when there would be no poverty.

In his speech which followed, Ambassador Bingham stated that for years past the American people have believed that the higher the tariff, the higher the wages and the general level of prosperity in the country would be. Now they have learned the grim lesson that with the highest tariff the country had ever had, more than 18,000,000 have no wages at all. By bitter experience they have learned how unfounded this tariff doctrine is.

Another prominent American, Louis F. Post, writing years ago on the subject of trade spoke of it as the great evil of the world, the political and economic cancer of the world, the perpetual trade war, the perpetual trade struggle. Not any kind of strangled trade, but free trade.

"Free trade," he wrote, "penetrates from every centre into every nook, corner and cranny of the inhabited globe. As it extends, it carries with it a knowledge of the best customs and ideals, as well as the best goods, that the world has to offer the world. Thus the best in all things conquer peacefully, when trade is free to stimulate peaceful intercourse and exchange."

"Free trade between the individual states is the real substance of the American Union. Abolish our domestic trade freedom and there would be no union, but preserve the trade freedom, and we should hardly be conscious of the change. This is the real alliance that makes the States one."

"It is this kind of alliance that would unite us to Canada, to New Zealand, to Great Britain, to Asia, to Africa, to all the civilized and uncivilized peoples of the world, to the perpetual friendship and mutual service. It would not require even treaties. Nothing is necessary but to abolish the trade barriers which we ourselves have erected. If we abolish ours, other nations could not long maintain theirs."

"If it is civilization that we wish to spread, if the progress of the world is our object, we have only to become universal free traders instead of imperialistic free-booters. Here is the choice. Which shall it be?"

"The world is full of humanity that it never listens to the voice of its prophets. Not until the 'grim lessons' are 'learned by bitter experience' will they consent to play the world's game of civilization. The world is full of nations are realizing that prosperity can only be attained by undoing the snarl they have tied themselves up in. The World Economic Conference can make its best contribution to the world's welfare by destroying the false values that governments have set up in the past, and restoring the neutral ground of free trade. The world will be clearly seen if goods were exchanged for goods, without the confusion of money. What kind of fools would those statesmen then appear who sought prosperity for the nation in a maximum of exports in exchange for a minimum of imports, and called it a favorable balance? When they saw their country's wealth being carried off in their own ships to other lands, and those ships returning with empty bottoms, how the nation would rejoice in that favorable balance of trade. The 'fortunate' country with a 'favorable' balance of trade is a 'creditor' who must never collect its accounts, for the more successful its trading, the more successful its exports, and 'bankruptcy' lies that way, we are told."

Free trade between countries without export or import duties, however, is but a futile. If the World Economic Conference succeeds in abolishing tariff barriers and increasing price levels and thus giving a temporary spurt to production, a new depression will ensue, so long as each nation persists in maintaining within its own boundaries social institutions and privileged monopolies which deny self-employment to its citizens and strangle production at its very source.

H. H. HOLLINS.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

OF YOU

Although I sing of hill and plain
 Or changeless ways I journey through,
 However varied is my strain,
 My song is still of you!

For you are part of dusk and dawn,
 And part of sunshine and of star,
 And every clippings and flower-strewn lawn
 Where beauty strays, you are.

I find you in the tranquil wood,
 And every phase of thought and sea
 Is but a new and lovely mood,
 Revealing you to me!

My songs may be of many things
 Or changeless ways I journey through;
 Of padded feet and painted wings
 In forest pathways dim.

Or of the countless ships that go
 To distant shores, and far and near,
 But through my measures you will flow,
 My song is still of you!

Cumberland Girl Dies Suddenly

Cumberland, July 3.—There passed away last Wednesday, after an illness of only one day, Iris, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Watson. The little girl was born in Cumberland. Funeral services were held on Friday afternoon from the residence, the Rev. T. L. Hipp of Holy Trinity Anglican Church officiating. She is survived by her parents, two brothers, Jimmy and Jeffrey, and one sister, Thelma, and the grandparents.

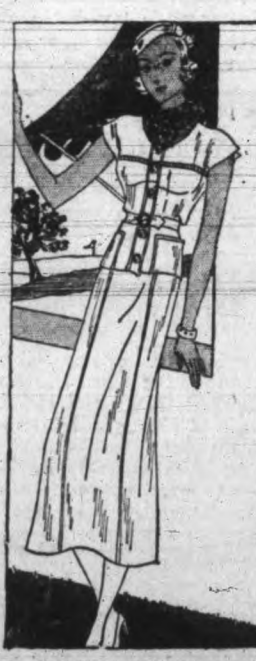

Navy League W.A.—The Women's Auxiliary to the Navy League held its regular meeting on Friday last in the Navy League headquarters, Bastion Building. Mrs. Appleby was in the chair and fourteen members were present. The president thanked Mrs. J. H. Gilchrist for the use of her home for the garden party held in honor of Admiral and Mrs. Story on June 7. A letter was read from the Navy League inviting all members of the auxiliary to attend the field day by the Rainbow Sea Cadets Saturday, July 22, at their camp at Rodd Hill. The sum of $10 was voted towards the prizes for this day. The coffee service was won by Mrs. L. Swift, 2124 Central Avenue.

GIVE THE LITTLE FOLKS A BREAK!

Of course you want your little folks to thoroughly enjoy their vacation! Well, here is a suggestion: Call the circulation department, E-7322, and have The Daily Times sent to you while you are away. Then your tiny tots can keep in touch with The Tynmites, or sports outdoors.

WHAT ONE GIRL WORE—

By BETTY BROWNLEE

Let's talk about the summer wardrobe. Here it is the beginning of July and with that warm month comes the start of gay country week-ends.

First of all we must consider our travelling dress. This should be cool, of course, and preferably dark in color so that when we arrive we look just as fresh and crisp as we did when we left town. Especially suitable for summer traveling are the dark triple sheer frocks dressed up with plique, trimmings.

If we arrive in the afternoon and there is to be a tea party outdoors, we can slip into any number of suitable frocks. Cottons having made such a big appearance this season—we might prefer to slip into a white pique frock. Or a simple model of printed silk.

ON WEDDING TRIP HERE

Passengers arriving here Saturday by the Ss. Santa Lucia from San Francisco were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Plant, who were married three hours before the ship sailed. They are spending part of their vacation at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burdick at Sahlham. Mr. Plant is operating manager of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, the Oceanic and Orient Line Navigation Company and the Williams Line. Mrs. Plant was formerly Dr. Kathleen Mahoney, one of San Francisco's foremost women physicians. Before they sailed from San Francisco they were presented with a binocular ship's electric clock by the members of the maritime fraternity of the Golden Gate port.

GOLF PARTY DREW CROWD

Cabaret at Empress Saturday Night Attracted Three Hundred and Fifty Guests

Three hundred and fifty guests attended the cabaret which brought to a conclusion at the Empress Hotel Saturday evening a week of social activities incident to the Pacific Northwest golf tournament.

The golfing fraternity was strongly represented and large private parties occupied the tables which lined the ballroom walls in two tiers and extended into the western foyer. Iceland poppies were used for the table decorations and the orchestral dais was a veritable bower of summer fragrance.

Four particularly effective entertainment numbers won sustained applause, particularly the "Song of the Birdie" chorus, dedicated to the golfers, and the opening garden dance. The garden chorus dance was presented by the students of the Russian Ballet School. Miss Patricia Robinson, wearing a charming white net frock and wide-brimmed picture-hat, with a red bow, sang "The Little White Dove" as a duet. The chorus girls in this number, wearing diaphanous pink frocks with matching parasols, were the Misses Wynne Shaw, Phyllis Addison, Elaine Shepherd and Gwen Noel.

A graceful toe dance entitled "Miss" was given by Miss Maureen Grute, Vancouver, who wore a silver costume trimmed with blue tulle and clinging veil.

The Hawaiian "Hula Hula" was cleverly contributed by students of the Florence Clough Dancing School. Miss Thelma Stratford taking the solo part, supported by the Misses Hilda Jacques, Kathleen Mann and Kathleen Gregson.

Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, soloist, and her brood of twittering feathered pets, repeated "Song of the Birdie" chorus, which was persistently encoored. The chorus was composed of the Misses Kay Shaw, Wynne Shaw, Phyllis Addison, Elaine Shepherd and Dolly Bradshaw.

The guests included: Major A. Selden Humphreys, Colonel Capt. George A. Martin, Dr. M. J. Keys, Dr. George Hall, Capt. Leven, Capt. Ross, Capt. A. T. ## WEDDING HELD IN VANCOUVER

Miss Gwen Stein of Vancouver and Mr. Harold McDonald of Victoria United

Of interest to Victorians was the wedding that took place in Vancouver on Friday evening last at the Canadian Memorial Chapel when Colonel, the Rev. G. O. Falls united in marriage Gwendolene Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stein of Vancouver and Mr. Harold Blair McDonald of Victoria, city editor of The Daily Colonist and youngest son of Mrs. J. T. McDonald of Victoria and the late Mr. J. T. McDonald.

For the occasion the chapel had been artistically decorated in a floral color motif of pink and white, by Mrs. A. Bohn Thompson, Miss Nancy Ritchie and Miss Dorothy Hall. Canterbury bells, rose sweet peas and blue delphiniums were placed in graduated standard baskets and in wrought iron ewer-shaped mounted on posts leading up to the chancel.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by her three sisters, the Misses Edna and Gertrude Stein, as senior bridesmaids, and little Miss June Stein as flower girl. Mr. McDonald was supported by his cousin, Mr. James Ormond, of Victoria, while ushering the guests to seats, bearing reservation clusters of pink and white sweet peas, were Messrs. H. Alan Maclean, Leslie Hyde, William H. Whiteley, Harold Fethick, Leslie Callan and Robert Parker. A programme of organ music was played by Mr. J. E. Walton, who also played the accompaniment for Mrs. Norman Senior, who sang "At Dawning" during the signing of the register.

Enhancing the blonde beauty of the fair bride was the wedding gown of white lace peau d'ange, the sweeping lines of the skirt cascading from a pin-tucked bodice of net that extended over the shoulders in knife-pleated epaulettes. Two tiers of the ruffles outlined a net shoulder cape which tied close to the throat. Arranged in folds, partially covering the coiffure, was the traditional veil of embroidered net held across the back of the head by a spray of orange blossoms which ended in clusters over either ear. Long lace mittens and Ophelia roses, shrouded with valley lilies and tied with satin ribbon completed the bridal ensemble.

The two adult attendants wore point d'esprit frocks and wattle hats in buttercup yellow and ciel bleu, respectively. The skirts of the frocks were bouffant ruffles of centre-attached ruffles and the bodices were made with puff-like sleeves and short jackets. Arm-mittens of lace were also worn. A bouquet of yellow carnations, blue delphiniums and deep cream sweet peas, tied with golden ribbon, was carried by Miss Edna Stein, while contrasting with the blue of Miss Gertrude Stein was a bouquet of pink carnations, pink snapdragons and pink sweet peas tied with blue streamers.

The bride wore in the guided basket carried by the flower girl, whose beffuffed net frock of maize yellow, had a ash of blue velvet to match powder blue slippers.

RECEPTION
Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the family home of the bride on West Thirty-Fifth Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Stein, with the groom's mother, received the bride and groom. Mrs. Stein wore a coat and gown of mahogany brown French silk lace and crepe Elizabeth, and narrow brimmed hat of natural Tassei straw trimmed with brown goosgrass. Tall-man roses were worn as a corsage. Mrs. McDonald chose a black lace ensemble with hat to match and a corsage of butterfly roses. The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. L. Stein, wore matches roses on a black satin gown. Mrs. Levi Stein, of Stratford, Ontario, great-aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Ormond McDonald, sister-in-law of the groom, presided at the tea table on which were pink lapers, flanking a centre of bridal roses. A triple-tiered wedding cake on the bride's table was embedded in pink and white tulle and surrounded by lilies of the valley in tiny silver vases.

The bride and groom left for Seattle, and to-day will return to Vancouver to board the St. Prince George for the Alaska cruise. Their home will be at 172 Port Street, Victoria. For traveling, the bride wore a frock and three-quarter length coat of primrose yellow, with matching Tassei straw hat and white accessories. She also wore the gift of the groom a silver fox fur to which was fastened a corsage from the bridal bouquet.

FOR SHEER BEAUTY

Bette Davis Wears White Organza Evenings

Hollywood. — The sheerer the dress, the smarter, these days. And if you can manage to get some surprising cut or touch, it is all to the good.

Bette Davis does all of that in a white organza evening dress she wears. It has finely tucked godets let into the skirt to give it flare from the knees down and a braziere top of tucked organza. Then it adds the periest, most inconsequential little Buster Brown collar and bow tie of the organza. The last touch in surprising chief!

Others seen about town in summery attire this week include: J. a. a. Gaynor, lunching at the Ambassador, with some out of town friends, in a tailored suit of navy blue striped organdy-cool-looking as winter ice—with a white pique vest, collar and hat.

MRS. F. SEHL IS PRESIDENT

After Being President for Twelve Consecutive Years Is
Re-elected by Acclamation

Mrs. Frank Sehl, who for the last twelve years has piloted the activities of the Ladies Auxiliary at St. Joseph's Hospital with such success, was again re-elected by acclamation for the office of president at the annual meeting which was held in the Nurses' Home on Friday.

The other officers elected were: First vice-president, Mrs. Vernon Thomson; second vice-president, Mrs. F. Critch; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Fraser; secretary, Mrs. William McManus; executive, Mrs. John, Mrs. Sabie, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Baines, Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. Hushes, all of whom were elected by acclamation.

Despite the continued strenuousness of the times we have been able to keep up our work to the same comparative standard as in former years, commented Mrs. Sehl in her presidential address. This had been made possible by the fine support of the members and the valuable assistance given by the Sister Superior and other members of the hospital staff.

Congratulations were extended to the Sisters of St. Ann on attaining their diamond jubilee year, and comment made of the interesting character of the celebration commemorating the arrival of the first members of the order here in 1858.

Purchases made by the auxiliary for the hospital included a Frigidaire for the dietetic department. During the year a cup and saucer shower, a bazaar and a successful tag day had been held. The annual bazaar had again been presented to the graduate obtaining the highest marks for three years' work.

Cordial thanks to the auxiliary for their co-operation and assistance to the hospital during the year were expressed by the Mother Superior, Sister Mary Ludovic. The last year had been one of the most strenuous in the history of St. Joseph's, and it had needed the help of such organizations to carry on. Acknowledgment was made of the presentation during the year of several years of no less than seven Norge frigidaires, and thanks were expressed for another generous gift, namely, twenty-seven air mattresses.

The treasurer, Mrs. Walter Fraser, reported a satisfactory balance in hand, and during the meeting the sum of $500 was voted for the purchase of linoleum, for glass tops for bureaus and for other accessories required on the third floor.

In the absence, owing to sickness, of the sewing convener, Mrs. A. Bell Bianco, the report of the committee was read by Mrs. G. M. Henderson, who had carried on the work of the sewing circle for the last year, this showing a total of 11,774 articles had been made, including 831 pillow cases, 494 baby socks, 453 drawers, 449 sheets, 367 hawes, 290 draw sheets and 7,355 sponges.

A presentation was made to Mrs. McNamara for her kindness in serving tea every Friday at the sewing circle.

The annual bazaar will be held on Wednesday, November 8. After the meeting the Sisters served tea at tables attractively decorated with pink roses. The Sister Superior presided at the head table at which were seated the president, Mrs. Frank Sehl, and Mrs. Walter Fraser. Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. William McManus and Mrs. Alex. McDermott.

PICNIC WEDNESDAY

The Centennial Young People's Society will hold its annual picnic at the Oak Bay Municipal Park, Willows Beach, next Wednesday, commencing at 3 o'clock. During the afternoon fishing and baseball will be enjoyed by all, and at 6:15 supper will be served, after which there will be a varied programme of sports and the evening will end in a bonfire, musical selections and community singing.

HONEYMOON AT HARRISON

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mc-
Killigan to Reside on
Rockland Avenue

The bride was formerly Grace Mousat, second daughter of Mrs. J. S. Adam, Linden Avenue, and the groom is the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McKilligan, Rockland Avenue.

Owing to the recent bereavement in the groom's family the wedding was held quietly with only immediate relatives of the contracting parties present at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, and wore a smart dress and coat of dove grey crepe, trimmed with touches of "laquer" red, her hat being of the same shade. She was attended by Miss Vime Kilby wearing a white frock and hat. Mr. Charles Armstrong, nephew of the groom, was best man.

Immediately after the service, the bride and groom left for Seattle, en route via Vancouver, to Harrison Hot Springs. They will make their home at 1763 Rockland Avenue.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cameo and diamond pendant; to the bridesmaid, a silver and enamel compact, and to the best man, a silver cigarette case. The James Bay Parent-teacher Association presented the bride with a silver compact, and the staff of the Margaret Jenkins School gave her a Crown Ducal rose bowl. The bride's pupils at the Margaret Jenkins School presented her with a corsage bouquet and a silver flower bowl. The groom, who is a member of the finance department of the Provincial Parliament Buildings, received a handsome case of flat silver from his associates. The members of the Canadian Daughters' League, of which the bride is a member, presented her with a silver flower basket.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

SALADS ARE THE THINGS TO INTRIGUE LAGGING
APPETITES

By SISTER MARY

With summer menus to plan and prepare, it is an excellent idea for the home-maker to have a few good salad recipes on hand. When your family refuses to eat very much of anything, you probably will find that their appetites will be appeased by cold, crisp salads.

Half the trick of appetizing salads lies in the attractive manner in which you serve them. Your lettuce or other salad greens always must be very crisp. One way to keep lettuce crisp is to keep it wrapped in a clean, damp cloth near never in the ice. Rinse it in ice water and dry it carefully before you arrange it on the plates.

CHICKEN SALAD A FAVORITE

Chicken salad in tomato aspic is a summer favorite. Here is the way to make it.

Dissolve one package of lemon gelatin in one-half pint of boiling tomato juice. When all the crystals are dissolved, add another half pint of cold tomato juice and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Set the bowl in the ice box until the gelatin starts to congeal.

When the mixture is about half congealed stir in one small cupful of diced chicken, 2 tablespoons each of chopped celery, diced tomatoes and sliced cucumbers. Salt and pepper to taste and put it all back into the ice box.

When the gelatin is firm and set, scoop it out of the bowl with a table-spoon and arrange individual portions on a bed of lettuce. If it is to be served for luncheon loosen the whole by dipping the bottom of the bowl in warm water, turn the bowl over on a large platter of lettuce and serve at table.

The above recipe will serve ten with a suitable dinner salad and will serve six for a hearty luncheon.

STUFFED PRUNES DELICIOUS

Cream cheese can be served in salads in a variety of ways. That old standby, prunes stuffed with cream cheese, is a summer favorite.

You simply soak the prunes overnight, cook them the next morning until they are tender, remove pits and place them on a plate in the refrigerator. When the prunes are quite cold, stuff them with small balls of cream cheese. If the cheese is hard and not easy to roll into balls, add a Little sweet cream to it. Top the stuffed prunes with a few pieces of nut meats. Arrange them on salad plates—four to a person—garnish with salad dressing and serve.

Cream cheese and pineapple salad is as popular in winter as in summer. Serve a whole ring of pineapple to each person. Place either a slice or ball of cream cheese in the centre of each ring and top the cheese with dressing. Fresh pineapple rings are delicious and healthful, so why not make the most of the fresh fruit while it is in season?

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast — Berries and cream, poached egg on toast, bacon, milk, coffee.

Luncheon — Chicken salad in tomato aspic, hot rolls, chocolate pudding, milk, iced tea.

Dinner — Pan broiled steak, new green peas, cream cheese and fresh pineapple salad, rye bread, ice cream and cookies, milk, coffee.

"The Sealed Trunk"

By HENRY KITCHELL WEBSTER

Copyright

This was a Napoleonic move. Babe came into action instantly. Before he finished speaking, she was leading Rhoda toward the little stairway that went up to the loft where their bedrooms were.

Martin followed along to the foot of the stairs. "She's not to get up in the morning," he told Babe as if he were a doctor giving a nurse instructions about an unconscious patient. "—at least not until late. I'll come around some time after ten with the documents and we'll go down to the baggage master and get her trunk."

Then, ceasing to treat Rhoda as if she were unconscious, he kissed her and she heard him murmur, his lips so close to her ear that it tickled. "Don't you worry, darling. The trunk is coming along all right. You leave Uncle William to me."

Evidently Martin was the right sort of person to leave him to. Her last glimpse from the balcony was of her uncle, smoldering and fuming like Vesuvius getting ready for an eruption but going out just the same through the door Martin held open, obedient after all.

When Rhoda really waked up the next morning—rather a long process after an unusually solid night's sleep—she felt very adult and sensible. She didn't precisely regret her childish terror of the night before, since it had brought out once more what a peach Martin was. She didn't believe she liked her less for it, either. He was like that. He understood things. But her line with him when he came to the station and got the trunk must be one of sturdy common sense. Above all she must let him see instantly that she took their pretended engagement as a brilliantly clever manoeuvre for outflanking Uncle William and nothing else. It would be terrible if he were left to think for a single minute that she thought that he meant it seriously.

Except for the expedition to recover the trunk there was no reason why she shouldn't have gone to work this morning as usual, although it had been fun to pretend to be asleep while Babe was making all sorts of sudden and calamitous noises in her effort to get dressed and get out the door. She sat silent, and really to fall asleep again for another twenty minutes after the studio door had slammed behind her. But by half past nine she finished her own breakfast, washed the dishes, put the studio to rights and, dressed for the street, was wishing that Martin had said he'd be earlier. He had said ten o'clock, hadn't he?

When ten o'clock passed without bringing him, she began getting cross. Had he just gone off to work as usual and forgotten all about her? At half past ten she stopped being cross and began to be frightened. Had Uncle William done some horrible thing to him to get him out of the way? Or Claire, with a pearl-handled revolver, this time, in her little wristbag? Or Max Lewis, or Conley? He'd been making formal, in her opinion, in her cause, hand over fist, during the last twenty-four hours.

When finally a few minutes after eleven she heard a step she thought was his come bounding up the studio stairs and had darted to the door and flung it open, she was so glad to see him that she forgot to be angry. He came in, she saw him, she was in his arms before she knew it.

By and by, over on the divan, Martin made a confession. "I'm a little under the weather," he said. "I'd be very calm and brotherly this morning and at least give you a chance to think if you wanted to that the whole thing had been a bluff for Uncle William's benefit. I told myself I'd be a dog to take advantage of you. I wasn't the money I minded so much—I mean the chance that you'd go in for a horrid rich. That was what was worrying Uncle William, of course. But I reminded myself that you'd only known me about a week, and you were love making, would have to wait, put a new dimension into her love for him. From the church door they took a taxi to the railway station, round the trunk without misadventure and they got back to the studio. By that time they were both wildly excited over the mystery of its contents.

What they found was just what Rhoda dimly remembered the contents to have been, sheets of yellow paper covered with notes, equations and diagrams. Some of them looked to her like gigantic magnifications of a child's game of tag and crosses. Pictures of molecules, Martin said he guessed they were, but it was all, he frankly admitted, considerably worse than Greek to him. There was an enormous amount of it, thousands of sheets. Several thousand, he said, and they began taking them out reverently, one at a time. Then they took them out by handfuls. There was no sort of order to them. Apparently it wasn't conceivable that this mass of stuff was anything that Forster wanted.

Well, then, what else was in the trunk? They got to the bottom of it and he flew at him and hugged him. She couldn't help it. "Did you get ours, too?" she asked.

He nodded. "I thought it was better," he said, "to have one case of emergency. That's what I told myself at the time. But will you, Rhoda, I know the curate and he'll be there. 'I'll get my hat and coat,' she said. And it wasn't more than ten minutes before she found herself being held by a heavy young man who had, it seemed, put out his pipe just before he'd put on his cassock.

She remembered later, when she had time to think things over, about how vague an impression this service made upon her. She was barely able to remember anything about it. On the other hand, she remembered that she had seen during their walk to the church was etched deep upon her memory. The force of his purpose to set up her father's name as a proper place, place, cleansed of the mud of scandal and suspicion; the fact that he had a plan and that until he had set that plan in motion everything else, even

Uncle Wiggily's Fourth of July

By HOWARD R. GARIS

When Uncle Wiggily had put on his hat and had made sure the twinkle was O.K. on the end of his pink nose, Nurse Jane said to him: "You had better not go adventuring to-day, Mr. Longears."

"Why not?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Because to-morrow is Fourth of July," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Well, I think I have as much right to a Fourth of July as anybody else," said the bunny uncle, hopping up and down on the door mat.

"What are you doing that for?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Hopping up and down," was the answer.

"Two rabbit boys went inside the store and saw a big red firecracker. 'That big red firecracker for Daddy's Fourth of July!' said Buster. 'We're going to put it under his chair,' said Custer. The cat lady storekeeper laughed as she gave it to the rabbit boys."

"Uncle Wiggily hopped around, up and down and sideways, but he found no adventure. Perhaps the adventures were hiding on account of Fourth of July, but he couldn't find them in the woods where no one could shoot him with a paper cap or toss a torpedo at him. After a while Uncle Wiggily got tired of looking for adventures and hopped to his bungalow.

"Such a disappointing day as this has been!" he sighed. "Nothing at all happened!" He sat down in a chair at the table.

"Jump up, quick!" cried Nurse Jane, "or something will happen now! There's a big red firecracker under you, Mr. Longears."

"Oh, my goodness!" yelled the bunny. Up he jumped, knocking over his chair and he picked up the big red firecracker and was just going to throw it out of the window when Buster yelled:

"Don't do that, Daddy! It's only a make believe firecracker. It's just made out of red paper and it won't go bang!"

"It's full of candy!" shouted Custer. And when Uncle Wiggily opened it there was enough candy in the hollow, paper firecracker for all his little bunnies to have some. So it was a very jolly Fourth of July for Mr. Longears.

And if the canary bird will give the shoemaker some ice cream soda straws to make a new hat for the milkman's horse, I'll tell you another Uncle Wiggily story soon.

THE CAPTAIN'S ILLNESS

Alien, you must come home at once!

It was a twelve-year-old girl speaking, sweet little Roberta Thompson. She had come to the field where her older brother was playing baseball.

When old Captain Thompson saw them, a smile lighted his face, but he did not speak. After telling him to be sure to get well soon, they quietly left the room, and spent anxious hours waiting until the return of Dr. Parker.

Following his second visit, before the doctor did not offer any greater hope for the captain's recovery, but told Allen and Roberta that they could have a talk with their grandfather, who had expressed a wish to see them again.

"Do not worry about me," said Captain Thompson when they entered the bedroom. This may be the end of my life's voyage, and if it is I shall be sorry to leave you; but I do not want you to be too sad."

Then he turned to Roberta's eyes when she heard these words, but her grandfather turned to her and said:

"Don't cry, little girl. I want you to be brave now, and at all times in your life. Prevent trouble from happening, if you can; but when trouble comes, face it bravely. I have done all in my power to prepare for this event, and I have set aside funds for your education and Allen's. That makes me happy, now."

I am waiting for an important letter from Dr. Parker, and it has not come yet. Maybe it will be here to-morrow—I hope I shall live till it comes."

Several thousand more copies of the "Surprise Leaflet" will be mailed without charge to readers who send me a stamped, return envelope. This leaflet is one of the most popular I have offered. It contains riddles, and tells how to perform magic tricks.

HOLLYWOOD SEES RED IN ALL THE BEST PLACES

Hollywood—Summer seems to make all the well-dressed ladies here see red. If they don't wear outright red costumes, all of them have a dash of it somewhere in their get-ups.

Marian Nixon wears a scalloped red belt and red straw hat with a navy blue crepe skirt and quilted blue and white taffeta jacket costume. Her blue kid pumps have red piping, too.

Posing for some snap-shots the other day, Sylvia Sidney wore a flame colored linen blouse with a brown tailored linen suit and felt hat of the same brown.

Lunching at the Beverly-Wilshire with Winifred Sheehan, Janet Gaynor wore a navy blue woolen swaggar coat lined with red and white checked gingham—and no hat.

Joan Bennett wore a candy-striped red and white sport dress to luncheon, simply made, topped by a red and white checked fez and a red and white checked sandals.

Posing for pictures with her young son, Tommy, Glenda Farrell wore a small bright red hat with two little gray pompons on one side, and a gray suit.

One of the smartest patriotically colored costumes seen hereabouts this week was worn by Muriel Evans, dancing at the Coconut Grove with Robert Young. The high-waisted, long skirt was navy blue linen, the bodice made of wide bands of red and white.

Chris von der Ahe, owner of the St. Louis Browns in the eighties, called Charlie Hase the greatest baseball athlete he had ever seen; since then newspaper men have called baseball enthusiasts "Jans."

Quite often a bridge player gets the most kick out of the game, when playing opposite his own wife.

MOTORMEN WIN FOOTBALL

In the Bagin Cup football series Nanaimo Motor Levels eliminated West Wellington Saturday evening in the semi-final, winning by 4 to 0.

The boys from the Hawaiian-Alaskan Expedition organized by Bayne Beauchamp, teacher, lecturer and traveler, and a number of them are approximately 1,600 miles from home in a country where they have made famous by the Klondike gold rush thirty-five years ago.

For four days these boys, ranging in age from fourteen to eighteen, have been the hub of activity aboard ship, forever talking about the new sights and delightfully anticipating the weeks to come.

The object of the trip is to gather plankton and botanical specimens for several western colleges. But there is more behind it. The boys will be taught independence in a country which has brought out the best and the worst in thousands of men. Mr. Beauchamp, the leader, is in love with the north country and this is the latest of several journeys into the country, although he is a comparatively young man.

The boys are members of prominent families in Honolulu, and are mostly students at the Punahou School there. They were hand-picked for the expedition, having regard to both mental and physical ability, and to the fact that they were about the trip for both Honolulu newspapers, Gattley Wilson, their fourteen-year-old publicity man, is especially proud of this.

Completing the water cruise northward on the Prince George, the party disembarked at Skagway and boarded the White Pass and Yukon Railway for Whitehorse on Friday afternoon. The ground which took the chechacos of '98 weeks of bitter hardship.

At Whitehorse the youth will follow in the footsteps of the old-timers by building boats for their trip down the Yukon. One long freightboat, five rowboats and a canoe will comprise the flotilla. The party will be accompanied by an outboard motor which will provide the motive power.

TO PHOTOGRAPH CARIBOU

The boys hope to see the caribou migration near Fort Selkirk and have plans to take moving pictures of this spectacular sight at the spot the animals cross the river.

Then down to Dawson City, the Hawaii boys will try their luck at prospecting, expecting to spend a week in the vicinity of the old diggings with the hope of striking "pay dirt." Resuming the boats, they will continue past Circle City to Fort Yukon, above the Arctic Circle, whence they will motor through the Yukon flats, shoot the rapids of the Lower Ramparts, and turn upstream at Tanana, which is the confluence of the Tanana River with the Yukon River, and head for Fairbanks, and toward the coast for home.

Their schedule calls for fifteen days of traveling, five days prospecting, five days hunting, five days for building boats and five days to take care of any unforeseen delays.

The boys hope to go partly off the country by shooting their meat, and their supplies are so ordered that they will have to go out for some of it. They will have to keep a full ladder. And they have already discovered that the mountain air has a marvelous reaction on the appetite.

PASS MUSIC TESTS

Ganges Harbor, July 3.—The following residents of Salt Spring Island were examined in Victoria by the recent examination in Victoria by the associated board of the Royal School of Music: Miss Sheila Halley, grade 6, intermediate violin, pupil of Mrs. C. C. Layard; Miss Winona Morris, grade 3, piano pupil of Mrs. A. B. Cartwright; and Miss Sheila Halley, rudiments of music, grade 4, piano, pupil of Miss Doris Taylor, L.A.B.

Log Cabin Honors Saanich Pioneers

Premier Tolmie Officially Opens Structure to House Mementoes of Early Days

Sports Held and Old-time Dance Concludes Grand Reunion

Scores of descendants of the early pioneers of Saanich and their friends attended the formal opening of the Pioneer Log Cabin at Saanichton on Dominion Day. Premier E. J. Tolmie officiated.

The picturesque cabin typifies the spirit of co-operation which made possible the early days of Saanich. Gathered together were some of the old-timers and many of the younger generation. In the building there will be housed mementoes of early days and documents of historical worth, as well as the photo of the "Pioneers."

The Premier referred to the passing of many friends who had worked hard in the interest of the district. He urged the younger people to continue the work that had been commenced by their elders.

"The real wealth of nations is in its citizens," the Premier stated. "One of the finest assets we have in British Columbia is in our young people, and I have every faith in their ability to carry on. In developing the country we do not have to meet the emergencies and contingencies of the old days, but we still require the same indomitable spirit and a cheerful courage, which will see us through in any combination of circumstances."

He appealed to all young and old, to profit from the opportunities that lie at their door. Emulate the spirit of the pioneers whom we commemorate to-day, and use your God-given faculties towards making your own lives a success, and rebuild our social and economic structures so that we may all know again what prosperity and happiness mean," concluded the Premier.

Prior to the Premier's address, Alec McDonald, president of the Saanich Pioneer Society, spoke a few words of welcome to the guests and explained briefly the aims of the society.

Following the opening of the log cabin, a maypole dance was given by the North Saanich Brownies. Under the direction of Miss McDonald, the children taking part were: Muriel Hall, Kathleen Hammond, Joan Butler, Dorothy Hall, Ellen Broch, Emil Elson, Phyllis Deveson, Doreen John, Gloria John, Betty Burt, Jean Strath, Olive Latane, Elsie Cox and Vivienne Butler.

Under the direction of Mrs. A. D. McDonald, a unique display of old-fashioned gowns was given by a number of granddaughters of the early pioneers and others. Those taking part were: Miss Jean McDonald, Miss Catherine McDonald, Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Miss Loretta Pope, Beattie Turgoose, Miss Dulcie Brothour, Miss Barbara Payne, Miss Hazel Lamont, Miss Geraldine Hillman, Miss Glenis Jones. The gown worn by the bride, Miss Brothour, was loaned for the occasion by Mrs. D. D. McTavish of Victoria, it having been worn by her grandmother at her wedding. The bridal veil was made by the Sisters of St. Ann's and was worn by Mrs. A.

Adventure Calls In Summer Time

Several Lads Set Out to Seek Fortunes and Families Are Worried

When open fields and salt breezes call in the summer time and youth responds to the urge, the policemen have a busy time.
At least three cases of missing youths are on file at police headquarters at the present time and each bears a hint that the young men in question are out to seek adventure on their own.
Donald Anthony, eighteen, and Robert Seely, fifteen, disappeared last Thursday from their homes at East Sooke, Orca Island. They are believed to have set out for Vancouver Island in a small rowboat as the first leg of a glorious adventure to the South Sea. Needless to say their relatives are anxious.
Jack Barton, aged fifteen, of 449 Moss Street, was listed to-day as missing and it is thought he is aiming to seek adventure in the interior of the province.
Ronald Callaway, aged fourteen, 414 Craigflower Road, is another who failed to answer the supper call and police are endeavoring to learn if he also has answered the call of the rovers as school days ended for another term.

Cambridge-Oxford Tennis Stars Win

Cedarhurst, N.Y., July 3.—Less than forty-eight hours after they disembarked, members of the combined Oxford-Cambridge tennis team launched its American invasion with a 5 to 4 victory over former Yale and Harvard players at the Rockaway Hunting Club. Nine doubles matches were played. Oxford-Cambridge was represented by James Nuthall, Cambridge, brother of Betty Nuthall, Peter Young, Cambridge, G. C. Frank and E. N. Moss, Oxford, and B. K. Barnett, Oxford.

In the Victoria player's great chance of being ahead into the lead came in the next hole. As in the morning, Campbell again hooked into the rough to the right and Taylor was well down the middle with the iron he always uses on this hole. Campbell was on in free about twenty feet from the cup and Taylor was in the hole first with a two-putt. Taylor, however, after three-putted, however, and halved the hole in fifteen. The twenty-ninth was halved in four and the thirty was halved in four. The things were still all even with ten holes to go.

On the long thirteenth both players were just short in two. Taylor shanked his first shot into the bunker. Campbell's shot pitched over the bunker.

New York Giants Take Two Bitter Games From Cards

Carl Hubbell in Masterly
Pitching Performance to Win
Eighteen-Inning Battle

JIMMY FOXX HITS FOUR HOME RUNS

Equals Major League Record
for Double-headers; Yanks
Gain on Washington

Carl Hubbell, slender southpaw flinger of New York Giants, and Jimmy Foxx, big Philadelphia Athletics' slugger, both already famous stars, added lustre to their performances as they stood out in baseball news today.

Hubbell turned in the most remarkable pitching feat of the season as he pitched eighteen arduous innings in the longest game of the season to win over the St. Louis Cardinals 1 to 0 in the first half of a double-header that brought the Giants a clean sweep and a five and one-half game lead over the Cards.

Foxx clouted two home runs in each game of a twin bill against the St. Louis Browns, bringing his total up to twenty-four for the season. But the A's could get only an even break, winning the first 6 to 5 in ten innings and then taking an 11 to 6 trimmings.

The four homers equaled the major league record for a doubleheader, made by Earl Averill of Cleveland in 1930. ANOTHER MARK EQUALLED

Bud Farnellee blanked the Cards with four hits and fanned thirteen in the second game, winning second 1 to 0 decision when Johnny Vargas clouted a home run off Dizzy Dean in the fourth. The first game equaled the major league record for the longest 1 to 0 contest.

Lesser but still fine pitching fests marked most of the other National League games. Brooklyn Dodgers slugged their way to one victory over Chicago Cubs, winning 7 to 3, but Walter Beck's six-hit pitching was an important factor in their 4 to 3 second-game triumph.

Dutch Grandt outpitched Paul Deringer to give Boston's Braves a 1 to 0 victory over Cincinnati, but Larry Benton came back with a three-hit performance and the Reds won the nightcap, 3 to 0. The Phillies and Pittsburgh had an open date.

New York Yankees crept closer to the top of the American League by beating Cleveland 6 to 3, while rain kept Washington and Detroit idle. The result left New York only a half-game behind the Senators.

Hubbell gave up only six hits in his double duel and didn't issue a pass. Tex Carleton opposed him for sixteen frames on even terms, before he was lifted for a pinch hitter.

Jess Haines followed. In the eighteenth he started by walking Joe Moore. One Mancuso sacrificed him to second. Travis Jackson, pinch hitting for Blondy Ryan, was purposely passed, and when Hubbell forced him at second, Moore reached third. Hughie Critz smashed a single through the box to bring home Moore with the winning run.

PAUL ROWE IN FINE DISPLAY

Victoria Athlete Second on 100 and 220 Yard Events
at Junior Olympics

Vancouver, July 3.—Despite old Dame Nature's absent-minded action in turning on a rain tap, she did not prevent the cream of British Columbia's youthful track and field aspirants from providing spectacular performances at the second annual junior Olympics and provincial championships, sponsored by The Province at Hastings Park Stadium on Saturday afternoon.

Two fair-haired youths, modelled after Apollo, went home with three championships in their hip-pockets. One was husky Jim McCammon of New Westminster, who was the winner of the weight-lifting, discus, shot-put and javelin events. The other was smiling Milt Parsons, lanky Vancouver athlete, who plucked the high jump, high hurdles and pole vault honors with gay abandon.

The double champion was none other than sun-bronzed Howard McPhee, seventeen-year-old running sensation of this port, whose convincing style and winning heart carried him to victory in the 100 and 220-yard sprint events.

Paul Rowe, Victoria, finished second in the 100 and 220-yard events. Muzz Patrick, Victoria, was third in the half mile.

REGENTS SCORE SURPRISE WIN

Defeat North Shore 3 to 1 in Dominion Soccer Series;
Will Meet Nanaimo

Vancouver, July 3.—Booting the ball freely at every opportunity with no regard to a smooth systematic game of football Vancouver Regents scored another upset in the Dominion championship series here Saturday, defeating North Shore United, 3 to 1 to go into the British Columbia final next week.

Never giving their opponents a chance to get set by the fierceness of their attack Regents slammed the ball around the field with abandon and North Shore never were in the running.

Next Wednesday Regents meet Nanaimo City to decide which team will enter the final.

Camp and Bradbury drove a couple of hard drives goalward in the early minutes of the game. Eighteen minutes from the opening whistle Crossley placed a free kick from far out well into goal. Strong, thinking Bradbury would head it in, stood still.

But the inside left missed the ball altogether and it rolled into the net to give Regents the lead. Ten minutes later Gemmel sent Regents two up when he took McLaren's pass and tricked Hunter to drive the ball into the roof of the net with terrific force.

At half-time Regents led 2 to 0. United started out after the interval as if they were going places but they quickly tired and Regents again took over the play. Fifteen minutes later McManus fastened on to the ball and cut in quick to job it past under the bar to cut down Regents' lead.

Taking heart United pressed in again but Regents came back strong and play was fairly even. Twelve minutes from time Regents counted their third marker when McLaren took the ball and past Hanna up to the goal mouth and eased it around strong. For the remainder of the game Regents easily held United at bay.

Wimbledon, England, July 3.—Henri Cochet, attempting a comeback to regain his place at the top of the tennis world, to-day advanced to the semi-finals of the Wimbledon championship with a convincing four-set victory over the California giant, Lester Stoeffen, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Smarting under successive defeats at the hands of Ellsworth Vines and Jack Crawford in the American and French championships, respectively, Cochet came within a step of a third meeting with the American and Wimbledon champion Vines plus Rodchet Menzel, Czechoslovakia, in the other quarter-final bracket of the upper half of the draw.

Crawford advanced to the semi-finals with a straight set victory over George Patrick Hughes, English Davis Cup player, 6-1, 6-1, 7-5. He will play the winner of the match between Henry W. Austin, England's last hope for the title, and Jiro Satoh, Japanese star.

VICTORIANS CAPTURE INTER-CITY CRICKET

With different bowlers, Smith having replaced Hendy and Beed last, and an eventful innings of 21, during which he split a bat and was three times dropped, he was unnecessarily run out.

SCORING SLOWS DOWN

Addie and Hendy had resumed the bowling after changing ends, and the score stood at 85 for 4, when Meredith was succeeded by Quantin. A run four of Wenman's at the same time brought the total above that of the Vancouver first innings, and his own score to the fifty mark. For a time the scoring slowed down, and the hundred was only reached at 330, after another wicket. Wyles, a fast round-arm bowler, now took the place of Addie, off whom Wenman had hit a six. An over later Hendy was replaced by Smythe, whose first slow ball bowled Darcus for eleven. He was followed by Davidson, a cautious player, whose slow ones raised the score to 146 before R. Wenman was stumped by Pearson, the young and efficient Vancouver wicket-keeper, after a brilliant innings of 89.

R. Wenman was succeeded by his brother, G. Wenman, who hit out fast for 27, including a six, but was caught at mid-on by Smythe, off Addie's bowling.

At this point the players adjourned for a quarter of an hour to tea. After tea, Edwards was soon bowled by Addie, who took in all five wickets for forty-seven runs, leaving Payne, the Victoria captain, not out without scoring. The total for the innings was 179.

The Vancouver eleven opened its batting again at 4.45 o'clock, with Reed and Pearson, against G. Wenman and Darcus. Pearson hit out with confidence, but Reed was more careful, and had only scored two of the nineteen when he was caught very neatly by Sparks, off Darcus. With the arrival of Wyles the game settled down, and Pearson's scoring continued regularly. Pearson reached his fifty, out of a total of sixty, at 5.30 o'clock. After changes in the bowlers, including a three-over spell by R. Wenman, who was clearly tired from the first innings, Wyles was caught by Meredith after a very deliberate twenty-two. Hendy succeeded to the partnership with Pearson until the latter was caught by Gibbons, off Quantin's bowling, with the fine score of seventy-eight out of a total of 119 for four wickets.

Pearson was followed by Smith, who was out of Hendy's hands, caught by R. Wenman, for fourteen, before he was himself l.b.w. to Quantin, after an innings of ten. Broadfoot, the Vancouver captain, succeeded Hendy, and played a very careful innings, which witnessed the fall of two more wickets—Petrie and Hobday—before he declared at 6.30 o'clock, with a total of 157.

A CLOSE FINISH

With sixty-five to make and an hour to play, Gibbons and Payne went in for Victoria, to face Hendy and Smythe. Gibbons hit out, but was caught by Reed off Smythe for ten, and was followed by Sparks, who with Payne brought the total up to forty-three before being himself caught by Strickland after an innings of ten. After some juggling of the bowlers, Payne was caught by Broadfoot, now wicket-keeping, off Petrie's bowling, after a careful innings of twenty. Soon after Quantin played a ball from Addie onto his wicket. R. Wenman now joined Meredith, who had followed Payne, and the two brought the score up to fifty-four, when the fifth wicket fell. Meredith was bowled by Hendy, G. Wenman followed, but was caught very finely by Hendy, who in the process was nearly knocked out in collision with another fielder. The score was now sixty, and there were less than five minutes to play. The winning runs were, however, successfully scored, just within the time limit, whereupon R. Wenman promptly hit a six to celebrate the island team's victory.

NANAIMO BOWLING

Nanaimo, July 3.—At the local lawn bowling green Saturday J. Paulde won from R. Gillifflin, 21-18, in the Sloan Cup singles. Other results in the club doubles were: D. Evans and W. Carmichael 23, J. Whyte and A. Newberry 17, J. McKinnon and J. Redpath 17, W. Storrie and G. Mortimer 12, A. Honeyman and J. Brown 9, J. Gastin and R. Barry 11, N. McKinnon and H. Simpson 11.

B.C. AQUATIC CHAMPS NAMED

Portland and Seattle Swimmers
Take Majority of Honors at Vancouver

Vancouver, July 3.—Despite down-cast and downpouring skies and icy waters, seven Canadian championships and five British Columbia titles were decided here Saturday at the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club's gala in Kitsilano outdoor pool.

Crack swimmers from Seattle and Portland carried off a large share of the honors, including four Canadian titles and three open events.

Jack Medina and Olive McKean, Washington A.C. stars from Seattle, failed in their attempts to shatter existing world marks in the 800 metres and 880 yards, the cold water making good time almost impossible. Miss McKean was 74.3 seconds over the record and Medina 91.5 seconds off the mark.

Linda Adams, twelve-year-old prodigy of Percy Norman, won the B.C. diving championship in one of the feature events. Marion Kennedy, Northwest champion, was off form and finished third.

SEATTLE BOY DOWNS ALAN TAYLOR AFTER EXCITING STRUGGLE

but he put his ball within eight feet of the cup. Campbell then ran up to within three feet. Taylor missed his putt and Campbell sunk his for a birdie four. Taylor was closest to the pin with his tee shot on the short thirty-first. The hole was halved in three; however, on the next, Campbell nicked another birdie by sinking a twenty-five footer for a birdie two.

Two up and four to go, Campbell was well on the difficult dog's leg thirty-third in two and Taylor was in the bunker to the right. The gallery warmly applauded as Taylor played out dead and got a half in four. The pace was getting too hot and the end came on the next hole, with Campbell well on in two and Taylor losing a championship in the sand.

WILLING IS BEATEN

In many respects, the Taylor-Willing was just as fine a battle as the championship final. After halving the first two holes in pars, Taylor laid an approach dead on the third for a birdie three, but lost the lead by going out of bounds on his drive from the fourth. Taylor went into the lead on the fifth with a birdie three, got a half on the sixth after his opponent succeeded.

Willie was followed by Smith, who was out of Hendy's hands, caught by R. Wenman, for fourteen, before he was himself l.b.w. to Quantin, after an innings of ten. Broadfoot, the Vancouver captain, succeeded Hendy, and played a very careful innings, which witnessed the fall of two more wickets—Petrie and Hobday—before he declared at 6.30 o'clock, with a total of 157.

After some juggling of the bowlers, Payne was caught by Broadfoot, now wicket-keeping, off Petrie's bowling, after a careful innings of twenty. Soon after Quantin played a ball from Addie onto his wicket. R. Wenman now joined Meredith, who had followed Payne, and the two brought the score up to fifty-four, when the fifth wicket fell. Meredith was bowled by Hendy, G. Wenman followed, but was caught very finely by Hendy, who in the process was nearly knocked out in collision with another fielder. The score was now sixty, and there were less than five minutes to play. The winning runs were, however, successfully scored, just within the time limit, whereupon R. Wenman promptly hit a six to celebrate the island team's victory.

Wheat Prices Soar In Frenzied Buying On Bad Crop News

Winnipeg, July 3.—Rochester more than seven cents higher on news of damage to crops in the United States southwest, wheat futures regained heavy losses of last week's closing sessions and closed today at levels reached in bull sessions at the beginning of last week.

With July wheat closing at 79½, October at 81½, December at 83½, and May at 87½, futures were 6½ to 7½ cents higher.

Speculators entirely ignored lack of export business in Canadian wheat and values held close to the session's highs until near the close when persistent profit-taking reduced gains a few cents.

Futures soared throughout the greater part of the session on their wild upswing at the opening and, with profit-taking selling paring extremes, advanced somewhat, retained most of their gains for almost the entire session. Trading tended to slacken after the starting spurge.

Their enthusiasm dampened during the later part of last week, "bulls" again gained control of operations to

Dorothy's Candidate for Meanest Person's Medal—Shall Loyal Friend Tell Woman of Husband's Philandering—Respect Vital to Love

DEAR MISS DIX—We are a family of two sons and two daughters, all married. Our financial conditions are all on a par. Recently our mother became seriously ill, necessitating doctors, nurses and the expenses of sickness. At that time, my sister's suggestion we all agreed that the four of us should divide the expenses equally so that the burden would not rest on just one's shoulders. Well, the sisters have contributed but a very small part and there remains quite a bit of expense yet to be taken care of and they refuse to pay their share. Say it is the duty of the sons to take care of such an emergency, yet they are quite as well able to pay as we are. Is it the son's duty to bear the entire burden? R. C. L.

Answer: Certainly not. Your mother is quite as much the daughter's mother as she is the son's, and it is just as much their duty to help take care of her as it is yours.

I do not know of anything that shows up the innate selfishness of human nature so vividly and so hideously as does the way in which in almost every family some members of it duck their responsibility to their parents and throw the whole burden of it on the shoulders of some brother or sister who has more heart or conscience than the others. And, strangely enough, nearly always the victim is one who is least fitted to bear the load.

Generally it is the daughters in a family who are made the goats. The sons, if single, have a grand alibi for not taking poor old father or mother to live with them in not having any houses. If they are married, they hide behind their wives' petticoats and say, of course, they would love to have father or mother come and live with them, but with the children they just haven't a spare room, or they are sure that mother or father wouldn't be happy with Mary and Sally because Mary and Sally are such pernickery housekeepers that they don't like to have anything upset or Mary and Sally and mother never have got along very well together.

And, of course, mother will feel so much more at home with her own daughters and be so much happier with them, and so mother is wished on Fanny, who has a husband who is no more pleased at having to live with his mother-in-law than the girls' wives would be. Also, Fanny's house is smaller than the brothers' and the children more numerous, but nobody considers that. They are so busy ducking trouble for themselves that they never give a thought to any one else's happiness or comfort.

All of us have seen this happen a hundred times. We have seen the poorest member of the family and the hardest worked have to assume the responsibility and the labor of caring for a querulous and cranky old man or woman, who was a semi-invalid, and we have seen the other children refuse to lighten the load by even inviting father or mother for a month's visit, and so give poor Fanny a little rest and respite from her constant care. Worse still, we have seen the well-to-do sons and daughters even refuse to contribute a dollar to father or mother's support when they knew that poor Fanny had to deny herself and her children necessities in order to give mother or father the luxuries he or she craved and the medicines they could not do without.

John can't pay anything on mother's doctor's bill because he is buying a new automobile. Tom can't pay for the new dress mother just had to have because his young daughter has to have an imported ball gown. Mary can't contribute a cent because she is going to Europe and Sally is so sorry she can't help, but she has promised to send her children to a summer camp and the best ones are so expensive. So they leave Fanny with the bag to hold, and they would be perfectly outraged if Fanny should also refuse to bear her share of responsibility for mother and send her to an old ladies' home. They would consider such conduct heartless.

My candidate for the meanest person's medal has always been the son or daughter who passed the buck to some one else when it came to providing for the parents who are just as much his or her parents as they are his sisters and brothers. For, if all the children would do their part, not only financially, but in having father and mother divide their time with them, the burden would fall heavily on no one. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a friend of whom I am very fond and whose society I enjoy greatly. During the last two years I have frequently come across the husband of this friend at various places of amusement in the company of a girl, and I have reason to know that he is unfaithful to his wife. I have never told her, but I feel so disloyal in keeping my knowledge from her that lately I have avoided going out with her and I miss her very much. Am I doing right in keeping silence about that which will cause a break between her and her husband if I told her? I hate to see her treated so badly. WORRIED FRIEND.

Answer: I think you are doing right in keeping silence. "The bearer of unwelcome news hath but a losing office," said wise old Shakespeare, and you will find that no one will ever tell her about her husband's infidelity. There is no surer way of making an enemy out of a friend than to open the eyes of a wife who has purposely blinded herself to her husband's sidestepping.

For in her heart every woman knows when her husband is unfaithful to her. She may not know the precise moment, nor the actual individual girl with whom he is philandering, but she knows with a woman's unerring intuition that he has betrayed her. No woman so dull but who knows when her husband ceases to love her, when he loses interest in her, when she bores him, when the evenings he stays at home are dull instead of incantation. No woman so dumb but what she can read by a thousand signs when her husband begins to be interested in another woman, when he begins to be fussy about his clothes and careful about his grooming, when a new light comes into his eyes and a new spring to his very walk.

But even when a woman knows within herself that her husband is faithless to her she does not want to be told because it somehow saxes her face to delude herself into thinking that nobody else knows that her husband prefers another woman to her and that she is a neglected wife. She doesn't feel she has to take any step in the way of a divorce or leaving him, as she is often driven into doing by public opinion.

So, for your friend's sake, don't tell her. Let her live in her fool's paradise as long as she can if she really doesn't know, and, if she does know, respect her pretense of ignorance. After all, what good would it do to tell her? It would only make a bad matter worse. Sorrow will come to her soon enough. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We are a boy and girl of seventeen and sixteen, very much in love with each other. Do you think it necessary for us to conduct ourselves so that we may retain our respect for each other in order to keep our love? C. P.

Answer: I certainly do. I believe that respect is absolutely essential for the endurance of love. You may have a temporary infatuation for a person whom you know to be weak, unimpaired and even vicious, but the love that lasts has to be founded on rock-bottom character, on strength and honesty and uprightness. Also, it is a peculiarity of human nature that we seldom love our fellow sinners. We blame them for having led us astray. So keep your love clean if you want it to last. DOROTHY DIX.

Special to The Times
Courtenay, July 3.—C. S. Wood, who has just tendered his resignation as city clerk and supervisor of public utilities for the city of Courtenay, has formed a company to build a line from the Puntledge power house of the Canadian Collieries to Headquarters Camp 3 of the Comox Logging Co. and into the Campbell River area. ### Great Reception Given to Gen. Italo Balbo and Fliers En Route to America

Tragedy Mars Arrival at Amsterdam, When One Flier Killed When Landing

Londonderry, Ireland, July 3.—General Italo Balbo's twenty-four-plane squadron of Italian fliers reached here safely from Amsterdam just before noon yesterday on its transatlantic air voyage which includes scheduled stops at Cartwright, Labrador, Shediac, N.B., and Montreal.

Approximately 10,000 persons were ranged around the square, many of whom had been waiting five hours to get a glimpse of the Italian fliers. Flowers and rose petals were thrown in Balbo's path by pretty girls inside the square. The general kissed his admirers, the girls who voiced their delight at this mark of recognition.

Generals Balbo and Pellegrini entered the mayor's parlor, where they munched sandwiches like happy schoolboys, drank champagne. Balbo previously was offered chianti, but declined in favor of champagne.

TELEPHONED MUSSOLINI
General Balbo telephoned Rome immediately after his arrival and informed Premier Mussolini of the progress of the flight, which is planned to end at Chicago. The premier was delighted.

General Balbo first intended to take off on the next or third leg of the flight yesterday afternoon if refueling could be done, but because in charge of the launch carrying gasoline decided to take the day off to view the seaplanes and consequently the departure was postponed.

During an interview General Balbo expressed pleasure at the warmth of the reception and gratitude for all that was done to entertain the squadron. Early to bed was the order yesterday evening, although the officers were entertained at a private dinner. General Balbo, who speaks no English, made a host of friends by his expressive smiles, shrugs and gestures, usually indicating what he intended to say.

Fine weather and tremendous crowds greeted the fliers. Intense excitement prevailed and roads leading into Londonderry were choked with vehicles of every description.

GRAZED TREES
The last six ships had a lively time, grazing the trees along the banks of the Foyle River.

Royal Air Force launches raced to meet General Balbo and brought him to land. The general was the first of the fliers to touch Ulster soil. Springing sharply to attention, he saluted amid rousing cheers from the spectators.

General Aldo Pellegrini, second in command, landed from another launch and with Balbo and other distinguished officers proceeded up the Foyle to Prince's Pier, Londonderry City, where they were given a civic reception.

J. Milner Barber, Ulster Minister of Commerce, motored from Belfast to welcome General Balbo on behalf of the Ulster government. High officers of the Royal Air Force, the mayor and other officials were also present.

General Balbo inspected troops on the Guildhall Square and was loudly cheered after the band had played the Italian national anthem.

ONE LOSS LIFE
Amsterdam, July 3.—The arrival here Saturday of the Italian air armada of twenty-five seaplanes under command of Air Minister General Italo Balbo was marked by tragedy, when one of the ships capsized on striking the water, resulting in the death of Sergeant de Quintavalle and the injury of three other members of the crew.

General Balbo, the youthful bearded leader, and his followers were naturally much disturbed at the loss of life which the accident produced.
